RAILROAD WORLD SPECULATES

000 recently voted at Grants Pass.

The line as projected runs in a generally southwesterly direction through Josephine County 45 miles to the state line and thence in the same direction through Del Norte County, California, 26 miles to a connection with the Crescent City & Smith River Railway, which is under option to the promoters for $200,000. This line is 10 miles long, making the total length of the line 91 miles.

Rights-of-way have been secured for about fifty miles of the line.

No terminals have been procured at Crescent City, except those owned by the Crescent City & Smith River Railway. Additional water frontage will be required on which a wharf can be constructed.

KILLING THE FLY EARLY SAVES GRIEF LATER ON

"Overcome the feeling some people have that flies are not so bad after all. Having done that, convince them that a flyless town is possible.

"Many persons do not really think flies are very nasty. They fish them out of milk and gravy, but they eat the gravy and drink the milk. Convince them that the fly is deadly.

"Remember the motto: 'Co-operative good will.' You can chase the same fly all summer but you have to catch it only once. Better, let it catch itself. Begin early; one pair in April may mean millions of flies in July."

"Suggestions for conducting successful campaigns against the fly" have just been issued by the University of Oregon and may be had free upon application to the extension division. The necessity of organization is first set forth, and a typical efficient organization is described. Publicity ideas and general methods of campaign procedure are outlined. Ideas for educating the citizenry to fly perils are given. The suggestions take up 1800 words.
