25 Cents For Oregon Apple
Oregon Building, October, 17.
A few days ago a lady approached one of Oregon's representatives here and said: "I'm from Los Angeles I have heard of Oregon apples all my life, but I have never tasted one. I have inquired around here in the building and they tell me there are none for sale, but I'll tell you what I'll do—I'll give you twenty-five cents for just one out of that box there, and if you won't take twenty-five cents I might give you fifty." Needless to say, she finally got a fine Oregon apple, at no cost.

On November 15th, officially designated as "Oregon Apple Day" all comers can get a sample of the fruit for which there have been so many requests. The Commission has arranged for the distribution of something less than 200 boxes of Oregon apples on that day—Spitzenbergs of 96-to-the-box size—and during that day a program involving music and addresses and special features will be carried out. The Exposition had asked for this day and will cooperate in every possible way to make it memorable.

Oregon's competitive apple entries will be on display at the Palace of Horticulture during the present week, large shipments being now en route. The bulk of the entries will come from Hood River, thirty entries of a dozen varieties being offered from there, while Rogue River will contribute largely. The Willamette Valley and Eastern Oregon will furnish a few entries of different varieties.

'Twas in a quiet back alley that we met that Halloween,
To plan our work of mischief, when our eyes met a frightful scene.
It seemed an hour we stood there, watching that terrible sight,
For something was coming toward us, out of the dark, dark night.
It stopped and rustled and rattled, then all of a sudden a groan.
Started us fellows traveling, each for his own Sweet Home.
When we fellows met next morning, to find out what we had seen,
We went to the same back alley, Where the night before we had been,
You can imagine our disgust, to find the cause of our scare,
Was a crumpled old newspaper, and a stirring breath of air.
So now my faithful listeners, if e'er on a Halloween,
You start out with jolly good fellows, be sure and find out what you've seen.
ARTHUR JOHNSTON.

NOTICE

ARE YOU HONEST?

If you hold a man up at the point of a gun and take all he has, are you honest?
If you break in to his house and take everything you can lay hands on are you honest?
If you buy anything and don't intend to pay for it are you honest?
Or if your intentions are good, but you keep on spending your money, keep on running your automobile and let your debts run too, are you honest?
If you don't like to answer this last question yourself, we can answer it for you: YOU ARE NOT.

You are withholding from the laborer his just wage.
Or if you bought sundries that were sold at a profit based on a cash sale, are you giving him a square deal when you let him pay interest on this money for a year or more, providing he can get it at all.
Or if you get new parts, for which the dealer is not agent, he pays C. O. D. in full, turns them over to you at the same price without even a charge for his trouble. Can you show us the difference between this and handing you so much cash?
You take this money enjoy your automobile-ride and probably spend more money in other easy ways, while he can grow gray hairs wondering how he is going to make ends meet.
Can you look a man square in the eye and say you are honest even though you tell him, he will get his money (maybe sometime).
Will you blame him, or yourself, if some fine day an unwelcome caller sees you and tells you that your goods and chattels are attached until you pay this debt?
Be a man, if you can't pay for your ride, walk, otherwise take the consequences and don't blame anyone but yourself. Get busy or we will.
