"AVENGING CONSCIENCE" is my supreme achievement. It is a greater picture than my "Birth of a Nation." It is two years ahead of its time.

So writes D. W. Griffith of his masterpiece in six reels which at the Heilig Theatre, Portland, "Avenging Conscience," broke all attendance records at the Strand Theater, New York, where the manager declared it was the greatest picture ever in his house. At Seattle, the Melbourne Theatre showed it to greater throngs than saw "The

Or cheer some wayworn soul in passing by;

If I can lend
A strong hand to the fallen, or defend
The right against a single envious strain;

My life, though bare
Perhaps of much that seemeth dear
and fair
To us on earth, will not have been in vain.

The purest joy,
Most near to heaven, far from earth's alloy,

Is bidding clouds give way to sun
and shine;
And 'twill be well

If on the Day of Days the angels tell
Of me: "She did her best for one of Thine."

—Helen Hunt Jackson.

I can not shape your life. Ah! if I could,
This year would bring you nought but what is good:

Blue skies above your head,
Blossoms beneath your tread.
I can not shape your life, but One who can

Long since has framed for you the year's fair plan;
Go forward gladly still,
Trusting His loving will.

Write to me very often;
Letters are links that bind
Faithful hearts to each other,
Fettering mind to mind.

Cliving to kindly spirits
Lasting and true delight;
So, if you would strengthen friendship,
Never forget to write."

Life, if good, begins and ends
In the circle of our friends,
Memory that helps and cheers
Centers in the friendly years.

When at this year's end we stand,
May you clasp a friendly hand
And be glad the good Lord sends
You your company of friends.

In the picture is perhaps the most notable cast ever assembled in any one picture, including Blanche Sweet, Henry B. Walthall, Mae Marsh, Robert Haron, Ralph Lewis, George Siegman, Josephine Crowell and Spottiswoode Aiken—in fact, the entire cast of "The Birth of a Nation," with the addition of Miss Sweet.

The state rights for the picture are owned by Orton E. Goodwin and Sol Baum, who outbid all other agents in obtaining the picture. It is declared to be the most costly picture ever shown in this city.

The wonders of film production have been taxed in producing "Avenging Conscience," and it is for this reason that Mr. Griffith declares it is two years ahead of the day. From many standpoints it marks an entire new era in motion picture photography. This picture has been playing at high prices through the whole northwest. Rudrauff Bro. announce that they have succeeded in getting right picture to play here in Springfield Friday night at the low prices of ten and fifteen cents.

"THE WOMAN PAYS"

Valli Valli, the renowned English actress, who has a long list of stage successes to her credit in both England and America, will be seen on the screen here at the Bell Theatre Sunday, Feb. 6, in "The Woman Pays," a five act dramatic feature picture produced by the Rolfe Photo Plays Inc., for release on the Metro program. This production affords Miss Valli an excellent opportunity to give full sway to her remarkably versatile talents, which insures an interesting picture. In the role of Beth Coventry, she is shown as an attractive, ambitious and vain woman who toys with fate and brings about the financial ruin of her husband, through her love of extravagance and social life. In the end she realizes her mistake when her beauty is marred through an accident in a terrific storm, and she makes amends and saves her husband from public disgrace.

Miss Valli is supported by a cast of distinguished artists of the screen and stage, including Marie Empress, Edward Brennan, John E. Bowers, Paul Lawrence and Mrs. Julia Hurley.
