THE SHORTAGE OF PAPER

A conference of paper manufacturers recently issued an appeal to the public to save old papers, rags, and other raw material of paper. They call attention to the great amount of such material wasted, and describe feelingly the scramble of the paper makers for the stock needed to fill orders.

Comparatively few people save paper as they once did. Formerly householders had a thrifty little account with the junk man, and the dickering with him was a part of the household routine. Many grown-ups recall how on rainy days as children, they would be set to sorting out white rags from the colored, one class bringing a better price than the other. If mixed, they all went in at the low price, which the thrifty housewife could not stand for. The few coins gained would look trifling now. But material was conserved and prices kept down.

During recent years the collecting of old newspapers has been undertaken as a money raising scheme in behalf of churches and other societies. Many people can be interested to save paper for this purpose who would not do it for their own profit. It is popular in the country where ready money is often scarce, and church funds come slow.

It is a very simple matter to file away old papers in the attic and save them for the Ladies Aid Society. The amount of paper and paper stock that goes through the average home is very considerable in these days, when so many newspapers, magazines, circulars, and packages come in. The proceeds may not be large. But to organize such collections for a public cause does not require any great amount of labor.

The net result is a conservation of resources and the removal of a lot of dust collecting rubbish from the homes. It is economically profitable to the community. This cannot be said of all the suppers and entertainments conducted for public causes.—Albany Herald.

In 1915 the railroads of the U. S. received approximately $57,000,000 for carrying and handling the mails. The demands of railroad employes in train and engine service for an 8-hour day with time and a-half for over time would increase payroll about $100,000,000 a year, or nearly twice as much as roads received for carrying mails.

MAIL ORDER EFFICIENCY

Herman Rosenfeld, advertising manager of the nation's greatest mail order house, recently told the members of the American Ad club at a convention:

"We have a bureau whose duty it is to read each week the country newspapers from all over the country. There is not a paper of any consequence in our trade territory that our bureau does not get. This bureau looks over these papers and when we find a town where the merchants are not advertising in the local paper, we immediately flood that territory with our literature. It always brings results far in excess of the same effort put forth in territory where the local merchants use their local papers."

RUMORS AND RUMORS

A great number of rumors of railroad construction are flying about Springfield these days, and it would seem that out of so many some work would have to come. The Oregon Electric extension has been one of the most persistent, and now we have a semi-official statement that the work is to be done.

The rumor persists that the old P. E. & E., the west side Southern Pacific is to be electrified from Whiteson to Springfield, operated with power from here. At least we know that material has been gathered for electrification from Whiteson to Corvallis has been assembled and President Sproule has announced this work. Whether the work is to continue on into Springfield is a matter for interesting speculation. This same crop of rumors carries with it the story that the S. P. will be double tracked between Springfield and Eugene.

The Natron cut-off rumors likewise persists in coming up from time to time. Just this week in San Francisco, Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific, in talking about the relation of the railroads to war preparations, said that, for strategic purposes it would be very desirable to have the Natron-Klamath cut off, and the Marshfield-Trinidad lines completed, and this started the report he had announced resumption of work on the Natron work. The San Francisco Chronicle of a few days ago quotes Mr. Kruttschnitt as saying no new work is contemplated. Here's hoping he considers the Natron job a matter of "completion" and not of beginning.

And with all these things leaning Springfield's way, what are we doing to make them certainties? It is high time for a bit of concerted community action.
