SPRINGFIELD HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The High School's Farewell!

I have done my duty,
 Even unto one of you,
 And shirked not for beauty
 Nor for our colors true.
 I have always taught you,
 Of present and of past,
 But never thought that you
 Would neglect me at last.
 Ye kept me not for beauty,
 Although I once was new,
 I hope you'll not forget me,
 I've always stood by you.
 But now my heart is broken,
 And when you tear me down
 I hope you'll get thru jokin',
 'Bout rubbage of the town.
 Good bye, you dear old friend,
 That we've studied in for years.
 We know you're near the end
 And leave in bitter tears.
 We can't forget the day,
 We first walked thro your door.
 But now we're safe to say,
 Our labors here are o'er.
 We've enjoyed many an hour.

Whispering and writing notes. But now like the withered flower is lost in a field of oats.

But someday we must reap, To find what we have sown. In sorrow we will weep For true friends that have flown.
 —Lila Miller.
