EDUCATORS' ADVANCEMENT

The teachers of Oregon adopted a new code of ethics at their annual meeting in Portland last week. The principal reason for subscribing to this code is to place the rank of the pedagogue on an equal plane with the doctor or lawyer or banker. Some of the principles laid down in the new rules are:

"To govern one's conduct in public and private life by the highest principles of courage, justice and truth.

"To be loyal to all movements looking toward the raising of the standards of the teaching profession with a reciprocal loyalty between teachers, superintendents and principals.

"Not to make application for an administrative position until a vacancy has occurred, nor to apply for other positions until every effort has been made to determine whether a vacancy exists.

"Never to underbid.

"Never to undermine.

"To withdraw immediately all applications when a contract has been signed and to notify immediately all persons who may be actually assisting in securing a position."

This is a movement that is well worth while. The teaching profession in Oregon until the last four or five years has been far below standards set by California and Washington. The state legislature has been raising the educational requirements at its last sessions so that from a legal point of view the teacher has had to be better qualified than formerly to hold his position.

Now the teachers have taken it upon themselves to see to it that a teacher must be equipped with more than a high school or college diploma and a certificate to teach in the schools.

A teacher is a public servant and probably has more influence on the growing generation of children than all other classes outside the home. If the teacher in the public school is the one to mold the lives and characters of our children, the teachers should be the best type of citizen that we have. Not only should the teacher know books, but he should know and practice good citizenship and should be a leader in all public community affairs.

Regardless of codes of ethics the best results cannot be attained until certain changes are made. If the teaching profession is to be on the same plane with the lawyer or physician the members of the teaching profession must expect that all members of their profession shall serve a certain number of years in preparation for their life work. At present in Oregon there are too many raw high school graduates and college failures that turn to teaching as an excuse to make a living or as a means of earning enough money to get a start in life. One of the first principles of the so-called dignified professions is that the members shall be well prepared before they start out practicing.

When the profession raises its own standards and makes its members more efficient it will receive a greater recognition from the public and with that recognition will come greater compensation.

The Cherished Subscriber

How dear to our heart is the steady subscriber
Who pays in advance as the year follows year,
Who sends his renewal the first time we ask it
And thus lets us share in the world's Christmas cheer.

The steady subscriber,
The cherished subscriber,
Who pays in advance as the year follows year,
We love the subscriber who says:
"Here's your money."
"You surely have earned it; I give it quite free."
"Your paper don't give us the news of the nations."
"But does give the news that is dearer to me."

Ah! that's the subscriber.
The cherished subscriber,
Who has our best wishes wherever he be.
For fifty-two weeks we have tried hard to please you,
To give you the news from the friends you hold dear.
Reporting each item—the sweet and the bitter,
As best we could get them from far and from near.
"THE TRUTH" is our motto,
Don't you think you ought to send in your renewal right now for next year?

Bad Habits.

Those who breakfast at eight o'clock or later, lunch at twelve and have dinner at six are almost certain to be troubled with indigestion. They do not allow time for one meal to digest before taking another. Not less than five hours should elapse between meals. If you are troubled with indigestion correct your habits and take Chamberlain's Tablets, and you may reasonably hope for a quick recovery. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Obtainable everywhere.

Camps Held Up By Snow.

The Booth-Kelly camps at Wendling will not open next Monday as they were scheduled on account of the heavy snows. Until the weather warms and the snow which is about eighteen inches deep melts, there will be no logging operations, according to the central offices at Eugene. There are enough logs in the Springfield pond to supply the mill nearly a month, but Wendling will be out of timber within a few days.

Writes From San Diego.

New Year Day ends the exposition here. It will be a grand affair; great preparations are under way for a grand sham battle. Explosion of mines on the battle line illustrating of how they do those things on the fronts in Europe, and many other stunts will be pulled off according to programme.
Yours,
MELVIN FENWICK

Home Restaurant Quits.

On Wednesday afternoon, the Home restaurant closed its doors and the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. McCreary left for Eugene. There was not sufficient business to justify in remaining open they said. The fixtures revert to the former owner, C. O. Foster, of Eugene. Mr. Foster will not re-open the restaurant.

The Habit of Taking Cold.

With many people taking cold is a habit, but fortunately one that is easily broken. Take a cold sponge bath every morning when you first get out of bed—not ice cold, but a temperature of about 90° F. Also sleep with your window up. Do this and you will seldom take cold. When you do take cold take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and get rid of it as quickly as possible. Obtainable everywhere.
