

Apple Men Warned of Anthracnose

Orchard Trees Should Be Sprayed With Bordeaux Mixture, Is Advice

A very serious epidemic of apple tree anthracnose developed in Western Oregon last winter says Prof. H. P. Brass of the Oregon Agricultural College, and an increase of the disease may be expected this fall and winter if growers do not spray. Where orchards are young an application of Bordeaux mixture 4-4-50 with spreader added is recommended at this time to prevent the infections which will commence with the early fall rains. Where there is a crop of fruit, especially in the red varieties, the application of Bordeaux is undesirable on account of the mottling effect which results from the presence of the spray deposit on the fruit. This may to a large extent be avoided by using Burgundy mixture. This application will largely prevent the rot due to the anthracnose fungus which develops during wet falls both on the tree and in storage. As soon as the crop is picked, or in early November another application with winter strength Bordeaux or lime-sulfur should be given to insure against winter infections. Thoroughness in spraying is absolutely essential as the object is to coat the entire surface of the tree with the poison and where this is not done there will be left opportunities for infection. Directions for the preparation of the spray materials may be secured from the Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Oregon, without charge.

Will Visit Son at Fort Stevens

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hinson, of this city, will leave tomorrow morning for Fort Stevens where they will visit their son, Corporal Delbert Hinson, of the Second company O. C. A. Mr. Hinson is a member of the 1917 graduating class of the University of Oregon. His parents shipped a fine box of tomatoes to their son and the other Springfield boys at the fort Wednesday afternoon.

TO HAVE SPECIAL COURSE University of Oregon Will Give Special Accounting to 50 Men.

According to word received at the University of Oregon, 50 young men will be given instruction in special accounting in the bureau of ordinance at that institution. Professor C. C. Jeremiah has been ordered by the department to have charge of the class.

The course which will be given in connection with the regular commercial school courses of accounting will be for the purpose of preparing men especially for the keeping of accounts in the bureau of ordinance in the war department. Six months will be required to complete the course, at the end of which time the young men must all enlist as regular soldiers, but will have a splendid opportunity for advance. The fee for this special course is $20. College credits will undoubtedly be allowed for this special war course.

GO TO CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Tom Gorrie and Fred Meats With Oregon Field Artillery

Sergeant T. C. Gorrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gorrie, of Douglas Gardens, passed through Springfield Junction Monday evening on his way from Portland to Camp Green, Charlotte, North Carolina with Oregon Field Artillery troops. Sergeant Gorrie is a member of Battery A.

When the troops were stationed at Calexico, California last year Mr. Gorrie was with them as a corporal. He is over six feet tall and passed the best physical examination in the company.

On the same train with Mr. Gorrie was Fred Meats, with Battery B, son of Mr. and Mrs. Meats of West Springfield and Sergeant Reed Chamberlain in Battery A. Mr. Chamberlain formerly lived in Springfield.

Passes Successful Examination

Clifford Fandrem, son of E. O. Fandrem, of this city, today received notice from E. J. Moore, county school superintendent, that he had passed successfully the eight grade examination in Arithmetic which was held last week in Eugene. This examination makes it possible for anyone who failed in one or two subjects in the examination in June to take the examination over again.

The Vicar of Wakefield

Presented at Eugene Theatre Friday and Saturday, September 14 and 15

The wonderful and appropriate locations in "The Vicar of Wakefield," in which the famous Frederick Warde is to appear at the Eugene Theatre Friday and Saturday September 14 and 15 were selected with great care by Director Ernest Warde, who spent several weeks picking out the various places called for in the script.

The vicar's home, which is later destroyed by fire, was an architectural achievement of Director Warde. He found it impossible to buy a house that filled his requirements, so he built one. And first of all the locality had to be picked with care.

The English inn, where the vicar confidingly gives his horse to Jenkinson, the master rogue, is on the estate of Rudolph Schaefer. It was built by Jackson Gourard, the husband of Amy Crocker of California.

The jail in which the vicar is confined, does not look anything like a present-day prison, but it is an exact reproduction of what jails were in the time of the story.

The coach used by Squire Thornhill and his friends, and later for the elopement, was specially built from designs supplied by old prints. The first coach constructed did not come up to expectations, and was cast aside, a total financial loss. The vicar's spectacles, used by Mr. Warde, are 100 years old, and are said to be the only ones of their kind in existence today.

Makes Clubbing Arrangement With

The Oregon Farmer

Offers Unusual Opportunity to Its Readers

AMONG our large circle of readers there are a great many who are interested directly or indirectly in fruit growing, dairying and other branches of farming. All of these naturally wish to keep in close touch with agricultural activities throughout the state; and to know about any fight which is being waged for the measures Oregon farmers want and against all sorts of schemes that are detrimental to the people and agricultural interests of this state.

We have, therefore, made a special clubbing arrangement with THE OREGON FARMER whereby any farmer or fruitgrower, who is one of our regular subscribers and who is not now a subscriber to THE OREGON FARMER, will be entitled to receive THE OREGON FARMER in combination with this paper at the same rate as for this paper alone.

This offer applies to all those who renew or extend their subscriptions as well as to all new subscribers. If you are interested directly or indirectly in Oregon agriculture, do not miss this unusual opportunity, but send your order in now.

THE OREGON FARMER is the one farm paper which is devoting itself exclusively to the farming activities and interests of Oregon. It has a big organization gathering the news of importance to farmers, dairymen, fruitgrowers, stockraisers and poultrymen; and it has the backbone to attack wrongful methods and combinations and bad legislation, and support honest leaders and beneficial measures. We are confident that our readers will congratulate us on our being able to make this splendid and attractive clubbing offer.
