

Third Car of Tent Pins Go

New Dry Kiln Is in Good Working Order; Women Employed in Packing Department

On Friday the Springfield Planing Mill company shipped the third car of tent pins on the government order for one million pins on which they are working. About 75,000 pins are packed in each car.

Inspector Dillon is expected to arrive Monday to inspect two more car loads which have been completed and which will be ready for shipment just as soon as they are inspected. When these are shipped about one-third of the one million will have been shipped on the order.

An extra dry kiln which was built at the mill, the government order having made it necessary to increase the drying room is in good working order. Six women are now employed in the packing department of the mill.

A prize of a box of candy was awarded to the best dancers on the floor. Mrs. G. W. Blazer and Frank Smitson were the successful couple. Mrs. Ben Skinner as a cow girl also was awarded a box of candy for being the best sustained character on the floor. The band will also conduct a dance at the hall next Friday evening.

SHEEP SCAB DISCOVERED

Disease Breaks Out Among Animals in Two Different Localities

Sheep scab has been discovered in two different localities in Lane County, says N. S. Robb, county agent. However it is well in hand and there is little fear of it spreading. Every measure should be taken to rid the county of the disease.

Dr. Dereflinger, state veterinarian, suggests that the farmers use "black-leaf-40" or lime and sulphur to control this disease among their sheep, and fall dipping is best. He does not look for any serious out-break of the contagion either in the county or the state.

He also advises that the farmers, before buying sheep look into the history of the animals and ascertain whether or not the herds where they come from contained the disease.

WHEN MEN GROW OLD.

One Sure Sign is Said to Be an Increasing Waistline.

When does a man get old? What are the signs? Some will say instantly gray hair, baldness, stiff knees, shortness of breath, and so on. An eastern authority rejects all of these as proofs of age and cites doctors to prove that there are two invariable signs—an increasing waist line and a decrease of physical agility. These indications may not show themselves until a man is forty or fifty, but they may manifest themselves at twenty-five. Whatever the time, the man is old.

This is rather an arbitrary ruling, but it has a sane basis no doubt. There are many men, of course, who by force of nature rather than any care of their own, retain a spareness of figure until they are far along in life, and usually with this slowness is activity of movement. But the average man not engaged in active physical labor that keeps superfluous flesh down is extremely likely to develop increased girth in comparatively early years, and, whether or not it classes him among the old or even elderly, it does take him out of the realm of youth. However youthful a man may feel, no one longer mistakes him for a boy when that big waist line comes.—Indianapolis Star.

Fame and Shyness.

In his book, "A Soldier's Memories," Sir George Youngblood tells a typical story of Rudyard Kipling and Cecil Rhodes.

It was during the Boer war, when they came to camp and introduced themselves unconventionally. As they were leaving the soldiers gathered to see and cheer them.

Said Cecil Rhodes hastily: "Take off your cap; they are cheering you."

Said Rudyard Kipling: "No, they are not. They are cheering you. Take off your cap."

Then some one at their elbow suggested:

"I think they are cheering you both." Whereupon both, clinging close together for support, shyly took off their caps.

The Handy Man.

The "jack of all trades," known familiarly as the handy man, is a serious drawback to the industries of the United States, because his knowledge and training are not based on the fundamental rules of any craft. Such men are the bane of any industry, and more especially of high grade machine shops, for their work cannot be relied upon. Doubtless it is a good thing to know something about everything, but the perfect mechanic and high grade foreman is the man who knows everything about something.—George W. Bowle in Industrial Management.

A Good Trick.

Dashaway—You say your sister will be down in a minute, Willie. That's good news. I thought she might refuse to see me, as she did the other day. Willie—Not this time. I am mad at her and I played a trick on her. Dashaway—What did you do? Willie (triumphantly)—I said you were another fellow!—Pearson's Weekly.

How to Prevent Croup.

In a child that is subject to attacks of croup, the first indication of the disease is hoarseness. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the child becomes hoarse and the attack may be warded off and all danger and anxiety avoided.
