Tiny Mitzi Hajos Is Star in New Comic Opera at Eugene Theatre

The best evidence that the public is fascinated by the twinkling toe, is the fact that every comic opera that has registered a decided hit since the days of "The Merry Widow" with its sensuous waltz theme, has had a dance of some kind that stood out in the memory and spread over the land.

The coming of the Russians fanned the flame but it has taken a French composer, Hugo Felix, to make possible the "Apache Dance" of the French Slums. This he has done in his new comic opera, "Pom-Pom". He wrote it for Mitzi, the Henry W. Savage company's baby star, and it is she as "Pom-Pom" the pickpocket, who with a girl partner heavier than herself, is giving the clearest reproduction of the dance of the habitues of the Paris underworld yet seen on our stage.

The strength of a man of unusual type and training is required to pick a partner off the floor whirl her in the air, up and around him many times as is done in this dance that has brought into popularity so many modifications of it for public use. Yet the tiny Mitzi, only five feet and one inch tall and weighing but one hundred and ten pounds does this in the new comic opera, "Pom-Pom" at the Eugene theatre Wednesday evening.

Robert Burns Lodge Banquets

This is not going to be a little 2x4 shoe store any more. We are going to be a slam, bang, up-to-date, down-to-the-minute, nothing too good for Springfield store, and there is going to be SOMETHING doing.

But what is this mysterious SOMETHING?
Patience please, just wait a little bit longer.
Give your imagination free rein; go as far as you like in trying to dope what we are going to dish up for you, and then take our word for it we are going a whole lot farther than that.

It's not a new Sale's Plan. We've had our sale and did fine.

It's not a cut price on a few numbers nor anything of that kind.
