

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

By WANNA MCKINNEY

Lena Brewer was absent from school Wednesday morning.

The Senior pins and rings arrived Monday and from then until Wednesday noon the final efforts were made and the money raised. You can now see the seniors proudly sporting their new pins and rings.

Jerry Van, in H7, This process is allee samee new silkworm.

The high school Jazz has been indefinitely postponed owing to the death of Fern Sidwell.

Military drill, under the supervision of Mr. Kirk, was begun Wednesday evening.

Saturday night there will be a double reader basketball game here, when our high school team plays the Coquille high school team. Preceding this game the S. H. S. senior girls will play a girls team picked from the other three classes. This is the first girls game and they are very enthusiastic about it.

Tuesday Miss Lindsey's E7 class wrote short arguments. Eleven from a class of eighteen chose the subject that: "Our heating system is inadequate." We are certainly reminded of this fact every cold day.

The B. M. B. club held a short busness meeting at the home of Jean and Dutee Fischer Wednesday evening.

The members of Miss Lindsey's E7 class are working hard on a historical play which they hope to be able to present on Washington's birthday.

The high school student body held a short business meeting Tuesday noon.

During the Thursday morning singing class Miss Richmond told us the story of the famous opera "Il Traviatore." We are going to learn selections from it.
