

FARM LABOR SURVEY DATA SUMMARIZED

Supervision of Food Production and Conservation is Great Need

How to supervise war emergency food production and conservation will be the principal work of the 1918 summer session of O. A. C., June 10 to July 20. Teachers, and especially women teachers, will be trained in directing the work of poultry raising, gardening and growing farm crops. Teachers will also—men and women alike—be trained in supervision of cooking and canned foods.

To give actual practice in the work they will be expected to do on return to their school communities, the teachers will be assigned to supervise various production and conservation projects conducted in Corvallis, under college direction. The problem of providing local leaders for the Girls' and Boys' Club work is the most difficult encountered by the club leaders, and this plan will go far toward supplying properly trained leaders.

Other war work of the summer session will be commercial training for men and women in lines called for by the civil service branch of government. Notwithstanding the volumes of publicity calling for stenographers, typewriters and office assistants, it has been impossible to meet the demand.

Special work for the girls and boys who have won scholarships in club work will be provided, and club leaders, extension specialists and county agents will be on hand to assist in the war work.

Regular teacher courses will be conducted as well as work for college credit, but the emphasis will all be on the war emergency work.

War Veteran Is Knitting Socks

Walterville Man Did Same Kind of Service During the Civil War.

Adam T. Morris, of Walterville, veteran of the Civil War, enrolled early as a knitter for the Red Cross and soon qualified as an expert by reason of past experience, although it had been more than 50 years since he had made a pair of socks.

During the struggle between the North and South he served in Company B, 11th West Virginia Volunteer Infantry, under the command of General Thomas Harris. He was taken ill with fever during his period of service. As a result of his sickness his feet were affected and he has suffered considerable ever since. For a number of years he was almost totally crippled and during that period he spent much time knitting socks, mittens and mufflers.

"I am too old to take up a musket and help Uncle Sam win the war," he said. "I have taken my knitting needles and engaged in Red Cross work, hoping these soft, warm socks may be a comfort to some soldier whose feet may be as tender as my own."

George M. Smith, an employe at the Eugene municipal power plant at Walterville, is also knitting socks. Mr. Smith's work is of such a nature that he has some leisure time.

Reports of socks and sweaters made by men are becoming more common. Almost every week a new volunteer in this line of Red Cross activity is reported from the masculine ranks.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Favorite for Colds

J. L. Easley, Macon, Ill., in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy says: "During the past fifteen years it has been my sister's favorite medicine for colds on the lungs. I myself have taken it a number of times when suffering with a cold and it always relieved me promptly." adv.

Safe Buying for Both.

Buying unnecessary supplies in advance and hoarding food, both by the housewife and grocers, was responsible for some of the highest prices of the last year. "Don't be scared into buying," the Interstate Grocer urges upon its retail grocery readers. That is just what food speculators desire. Normal buying of all groceries with a view to quick and regular turnover will keep goods moving in a normal way at reasonable prices. "Don't let anyone scare you into buying in anticipation of heavy advances, but force the channels of distribution to return to the old basis of competition in selling. Consumers are not apt to buy out any grocer, as most of them have spent as much money as they could spare in canning and preserving their own fruits and vegetables. If speculators succeeded in creating a panic buying condition, unloading upon the retail grocer at abnormal prices, the latter would be left holding the bag."

"Coal Savers."

Various preparations are extensively advertised in this country at present which are presumed to contribute considerably to the heating power of coal when applied in the prescribed doses, writes Consul General Robert P. Skinner, London. The director of fuel research, in answer to an inquiry as to the value of these preparations, states that these proprietary substances have been in the market a long time, but that there does not appear to be any genuine scientific evidence in support of the claims of their manufacturers. He concludes: "The nature of the substances makes it highly improbable that they have any effect whatsoever on the combustion of coal or other fuels when they are used in the quantities prescribed."

REMOVE THE CAUSE

By Mrs. Cecelia C. Wiffen.

I have entered the war! I am going to fight to a finish! I have been forced to receive coal in half-ton lots, when able to secure it in any amount.

I said it was a war measure and I would cheerfully do my part. But now I am angry. I am riled clear through and I am going to tell you why.

My church was closed Sunday because it could not get coal.

Not a single Chicago saloon, so far as I have heard, was short of coal, or has been even asked to close, except on the Monday holidays.

Saloons open, schools closed!

Isn't that enough to make the patriotic blood of the average American woman boil?

It takes a pound of coal to brew a pint of beer.

Churches have been asked to hold union services, or to take up the evening services entirely, to conserve coal.

When has a brewery been asked to close, except on Monday, to save coal?

We are asked to conserve food by observing wheatless and meatless days.

Breweries are using large quantities of grain in brewing beer.

Why not ask for beerless days other than on a few Mondays?

Women are asked to not use so much bread in the kitchen.

Why not ask the men to use less beer in the saloons?

I am not the president of these United States of America. If I were, my first official act, performed as the greatest war measure of my whole administration, would be to close every saloon in the United States.

If this was done, there would at once be a noted betterment in the morale of the cantonnments.

If the saloons were closed, all ammunition plants, all arsenals, and factories manufacturing war supplies, would increase more than 25 per cent in efficiency, with corresponding per cent increase in production.

If the saloons were closed, trains would operate more rapidly, freight would be handled more expeditiously, and there would be marked improvement everywhere.

If the saloons were closed, more coal would be mined, more freight would be handled, more ships would be put to sea, more food would be conserved.

With all these facts admitted, why does not the government help win the war more expeditiously by closing the saloons?

I do not know. Neither do you.

I shall continue to patriotically do my full duty, but I will not cease being angry until the saloons are closed.

Since the government has not acted, we can do our part by voting against the saloon at the spring election.

Let us vote out the saloons and win the war!

THE GARDEN

By Harold Wynd

Everywhere we hear, "Food Will Win the War." But we must do more than just listen and talk about the food question; we must be up and doing.

There are two ways to help the food situation; one is to preserve the food-stuffs we have, and another is to increase the supply by raising a garden.

Many may think that the raising of a garden is a very simple matter so therefore no thought need be given it.

This is a very wrong idea. It is simple but to be the most successful it has to be managed with the same thorough diligence that the soldiers are being drilled by. Then our enthusiasm must not decrease as it is very likely to do, but instead be carried out through the entire year. This is the way to help win the war.

Plan your garden before time to plant it and you will have a more systematic garden than without it.

Order your seeds (even a small order) from a seed house. They will be more dependable. Order early, especially this year.

If you will have a hotbed better begin on it. If you use window boxes try only plants such as cabbage, cauliflower, and lettuce. Tomatoes need the heat of a bed or hot house. A hotbed should be planted between the first and 20th of March.

Start some rhubarb and asparagus this year. They are very easy to raise and are perennial. Get Bulletin 61 at Washington, D. C., for "Asparagus Culture."

Include some sugar beets in your feed list and make your own syrup; it isn't hard to do.

A Bilious Attack

When you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a terrible headache. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever. They only cost a quarter. adv.

COBURG MAN IS IN JAIL

is Charged With Threatening to Shoot Neighbor.

Harry Martin of Coburg is in the county jail in default of $2000 bail to await the action of the grand jury. Martin is charged with threatening to shoot Jack Rutledge and Leon F. Smith, both of Coburg. The trouble grew out of the burning of a warehouse full of potatoes at Coburg a few weeks ago. The potatoes, which were heavily insured, were owned by Jesse Fox, who was at Salem at the time of the fire. Since that time the state fire warden's office has been investigating the cause of the fire and

H. H. Pomeroy, deputy state fire warden, swore that he had evidence tending to show that Martin might be mixed up in the affair. Both Rutledge and Smith swore that Martin threatened to shoot them if they did not stop investigating the fire, and L. H. Lathrop swore that Martin said that if he went to the penitentiary it would not be merely for setting fire to a building.
