

PROMISES fulfilled by PERFORMANCE

A druggist who renders the best service in a community must emphasize the professional side of his business—for it is the professional side that has to do with the health and welfare of patrons. We recognize our duty to the public and fulfill it the best we can.

Back of the service which we render is a rare technical knowledge of drugs and—years' experience. All of this is constantly applied for the benefit of our customers. We realize that our interests are mutual. We have never believed that immediate profit was the thing to be striven for in a family drug store. If the service is right, profit will, in the long run, take care of itself.

So we say to our customers that all promises made by us are fulfilled by performance

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh—being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Ft. Stevens Boys Cross Continent

Pass Through Willamette Valley to San Francisco, Thence by Panama Canal.

Russell Dimm, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dimm of this city, describes his trip from Fort Stevens via the Panama canal to Camp Merritt, New Jersey:

We packed up our packs on Tuesday morning, February 26, and waited until 6:30 p. m. before leaving the Fort. We got settled on the train right away. When we arrived in Portland at 11:30, the people passed out to each of us a box of eats, so with what we received on Wednesday morning at Eugene and from friends at Roseburg we had plenty to eat on our trip.

We arrived in Ashland late Wednesday evening, where we took a hike and waited for another engine. There were crowds of people out at every station to see us go through.

Wednesday night we went over the Siskiyou mountains, which were covered with snow, and woke up on Thursday morning in sunny California.

We stopped at Chico and Stockton, and at about two o'clock in the afternoon we pulled into Tracy, a small town about 40 miles from San Francisco. At Tracy the Lieutenant-Colonel made a speech and said we would be turned loose for ten hours. The people treated us fine. One man took four of us out in his car to see the big irrigation ditches. We also visited the Byron hot springs, where we bought our supper. When we returned to Tracy we found that the people had arranged a big, free dance for us to enjoy ourselves. We had a fine time until 11 o'clock, when we again boarded the train for San Francisco, where we arrived at seven A. M. Friday morning. We put on our packs at eight o'clock and marched five miles through Frisco to Fort Scott where the transport, Northern Pacific was waiting to take us round through the Panama canal.

We were given physical examinations before boarding the ship.

We got settled on board that afternoon. There were five batteries of 233 men in a battery, a Base Hospital corps of 250 men, the Sixty-fifth Hospital corps of 106 men, the supply train of 186 men, and about 200 officers, 250 extra seamen and about 150 ship's crew and officers, there being 2200 or more men on board ship besides a load of freight made it pretty crowded.

On Sunday morning we anchored away from dock, in the bay and at three o'clock went over the bar and through the Golden Gate. We steamed south at full speed trying to make a record trip; so you can see when I say that it is 3200 miles from Frisco to Panama and we arrived there the next Sunday morning, March 3, that we must have traveled fast for a boat.

Nothing of very much importance happened on our trip south to Panama only saw one whale, several flying fish and lots of turtles in the ocean. The ocean was just like a sheet of glass during the whole of the trip.

At eight o'clock Sunday morning we were in sight of Balboa, which is situated at the mouth of the canal. We did not stop until we arrived at the first locks, called Mira Flores, which are the largest locks in the canal. We then went up the canal to the big lake that makes almost all of the interior of the canal.

The birds were the prettiest sight of all and the vegetation was the greenest green I have ever seen.

I never thought I would ever care to go through the canal but it was the greatest sight I have ever seen and ever hope to see. I never have seen anything so beautiful in all my life. It cannot be described.

About noon Sunday we went through the Culebra cut, the one that makes so much trouble, caving in all the time. To see that one piece of engineering work was worth the whole trip. We also passed through the Pedro Mugill and Gatun locks at noon.

Both sides of the boat grated on the sides of the canal almost all of the time, except where there were wide places every short distance for the boats to pass each other. One could almost gather leaves from the trees at times.

We arrived at Colon that same evening about seven o'clock and stayed there all night taking on oil. We were not allowed off of the boat.

We left Colon Monday morning for a port in Virginia. The Atlantic ocean was very rough and most of the men were sick, I felt fine throughout all of the trip except have had a bad cold.

We arrived at Portsmouth, Virginia Friday morning, March 15, I saw the battleship Pennsylvania, in the harbor along with quite a number more, also the mosquito fleet of submarine destroyers.

We took a long hike at Portsmouth while the extra seamen and some cargo were being unloaded. That night we left for New York where we arrived on Sunday morning. We saw the Statue of Liberty and some battleship also some submarines (American of course) in the harbor.

We disembarked on Sunday at Hoboken and went by train to camp Merritt where we had a real night's sleep. We will remain here until ready to go over the pond which will be sometime soon.

HOW RETURNS ARE NOTED

Map System to Be Used During Third Liberty Loan Drive.

Returns from the various counties of the state will be indicated at the Oregon State Central Liberty Loan headquarters, Portland, on a color scheme map, as will every town and district in which a quota has been assigned, by a yellow thumb tack. The counties will have a large headed tack and the districts a small yellow one.

As soon as one-half of the assigned quota has been reached in each town or district a red thumb tack will replace the yellow one on the map. Similarly with the counties on the state map. Each county headquarters will have their own map with the county divided into convenient districts which are to be bulletined likewise.

When the full quota in each town and district is attained it will be designated by a blue thumb tack. This system will afford an accurate check and will indicate those counties and districts of the state which are doing the most effective work in the Third Liberty Loan Campaign.

In each town and district a solicitor will be sent out with the Government household questionnaire upon which is written pertinent facts concerning the individual's ability to subscribe. Should the person be unable to subscribe one-half of the amount estimated that he is able to, a yellow card will be sent into district headquarters. When more than one-half but less than the full assignment has been received a red card replaces the yellow, and a blue card is used when the full quota of the individual has been subscribed. This system gives an accurate and detailed check on every person and the state and county headquarters will know exactly what can be expected and what is being done.

The master map at Washington, D. C., will indicate the advance in each state and the entire country.

Everyman's Pledge
