JUBILEE BIG SUCCESS

That the citizens of Springfield can pull off successfully a three-day celebration has been amply proven by the Irrigation Jubilee which closed in a blaze of glory last Saturday night. It has been several years since a celebration of any kind has been held in this city, and quite a number gave out the impression it could not be done, but the committees who had the matter in charge never hesitated for a moment, but buckled right down to business and every member worked hard to make it a success. Had the weather been what it is this week the Jubilee would have been the biggest success of any event ever held in Lane county. Nevertheless, the result aimed at was accomplished—to advertise Springfield—and nobody can deny this was not done, and done well.

ONLY ONE REFUSES TO CONTRIBUTE

The Jubilee finance committee reports but one Springfield business man who refused point-blank to contribute his "bit" toward defraying the expense of the Jubilee, and that man did a capacity business during the three-day celebration. His excuse for not contributing was made purely from a narrow-minded and selfish standpoint, and a man who has no more community spirit for the town in which he lives and makes his money ought to move out and make way for the man who does believe in boosting for his home town.

RESPONSIBILITY RESTS ON CONGRESS

We are living in an age of oil and gasoline. Apparently there is nothing that will stem the ever increasing demand for this class of fuel for all manner of steam and internal combustion engines.

The great problem of increasing the supply is absorbing attention of all oil producers. New fields are being tested in all sections of the country where there are the slightest indications of oil.

While new fields are being developed, however, leasing measures are before congress which would permit increased oil output on hundreds of thousands of acres of withdrawn lands, already proved to be oil bearing, but which the government withdrew from use. Also a measure granting hundreds of thousands of dollars in oil bearing lands in California, which were later closed by withdrawal orders.

Responsibility for an oil shortage in this country during the war can be laid at the doors of the men who played politics with our oil resources, under the cloak of so-called conservation measures. Past experience shows the dangers of refusal to permit development of our oil lands and unless a constructive policy is adopted by our government which will encourage instead of discourage oil production, it is only a question of time before we will experience another serious gasoline and oil shortage. It's up to congress to act now.

FIGHT FIRE AND PLANT TREES

"America must practice forestry on her privately owned timber land to provide a future supply of raw material for the lumber industry and prevent a wood famine," said District Forester George H. Cecil at Portland, Oregon.

The timber of the United States is being cut at the rate of for another crop of trees when the present stand is exhausted. Fire protection is largely restricted to mature timber. Fires are allowed to sweep over the logged-off areas, destroying the young tree growth with which nature would reforest the land.

Fire fighting will save hundreds of millions of feet of timber which it will take centuries to grow.

LUMBER

Mr. George S. Long, manager of the Weyerhaeuser Timber company, has this to say regarding the lumber situation: "While temporarily there may be more or less of the unknown and confusion about business affairs until the war turmoil is settled, yet in my judgement it will only be short time until the lumber business will participate, with all other kinds of business, in the most active epoch in the history of the lumber business for the past 50 years. In other words, I believe the activities of the world in the next 10 or 15 years are going to surpass in a business way and in a development way any similar period within the memory of man."

CAUSALTY FROM ACCIDENTS IN AMERICA DURING WAR PERIOD

Statistics reveal that while during the nineteen months of war there were 56,227 Americans killed and 200,000 injured in the war, while here in the United States of America in peaceful occupations during that same period in factories, manufacturing plants, on the streets, on buildings, on railroads, etc., there were 126,654 men, women and children killed and 2,000,000 injured. The casualty list therefore reveals that during the period stated one man, woman and child was either killed or injured in peaceful occupation every time the clock ticked off 23 seconds. The killed if laid shoulder to shoulder would require a trench 48 miles long.

DISCONTINUE THIS NUISANCE

Next to the tax on tea in Revolutionary days, the present so-called luxury taxes and social five per cent tax on candy, are probably the most unpopular taxes ever collected in this country.

Demand seems to be universal that these "nagging" taxes as they are called, be done away with at once.

The public is ready to pay taxes to the necessary limit but it does not want to be harassed by such taxes as these.

Collect the tax money necessary, in legitimate ways, but discontinue this nuisance.

CANNING GREAT INDUSTRY

The canning industry, fish vegetables and fruit is growing rapidly in Pacific Coast and western states. This industry should be encouraged in every way as it is a great developer of the country and employer of labor. Closely connected with it is can and box manufacturing.
