HIGH SCHOOL BULLETIN

[Furnished by Students]

Judging from the sounds that were heard coming from the school-house Tuesday evening after school, we are going to have a very good Glee club this year.

The S. H. S. students and teachers are certainly doing their best to make the High school worth while.

The first student body meeting was called to order Tuesday afternoon by President Russel Olson and a small business matter was attended to.

It is easily seen that it isn't only the freshmen that are bashful, but also the seniors.

Miss Marian Collins, of Kirksville, Missouri, has enrolled in S. H. S. as a junior.

As one of the pupils was coming to school the other morning his tire blew out, and as a result, he was late for typewriting.

Ole Sollem wishes to change his seat. He says the sophomore and junior girls annoy him.

The Girls' Glee club has been organized and a small tax levied for the funds for the beginning work.

Mr. Roth donated his chair to one of the pupils in Science class Wednesday morning.

Ernest Korn has again entered S. H. S. He is a dignified senior this year.

Mr. Roth (in General Science, dusting the globe): "I'll have to wash his face before breakfast".

Theo. Cogill has entered S. H. S. as a frosh.

Winnifred Harpole is back to school after a short absence.

Dwight Kessey and Lyonel Vors got a ducking at the S. H. S. by the upper classmen.

The president of last year's junior class called a meeting of the senior class last Tuesday at noon and elected new officers. The following officers were elected: Louis Gibbs, president; George Williams, vice-president; Opal Mason, secretary; Clarence Powell, treasurer.

We notice lately that Jesse Larson has been helping Irene Kirschner with her algebra. We hope she gets her lesson.

Talk about old S. H. S. not having any sports. Why, the vice-president of the senior class, George Williams, and a few of his lower classmen such as Harry Hughes, Clifford Fandrem, Jess Larrison, Charlie Gerard, and my goodness we don't know how many more, were having a wonderful game of marbles Tuesday evening. We're all looking forward to their success and maybe—who knows?—they'll be world champion marble players—Here's hoping.

Vivian Senseney is absent from school, and we are all wondering where she is.

Algebra III, October 7, 1919.—Voice from back of room: "What's two times nine halves?" Laugh from the class. Teacher: "Nine fourths." We wonder what she was dreaming of.

A very interesting sophomore meeting was held Friday evening in Mr. Roth's room for the purpose of electing new officers and planning our work for the year. Naturally we are going to be the best and loveliest class in school, as the frosh are too green, the seniors too dignified, and the juniors too friendly with the frosh. The class officers are as follows: Edwena

Parsons, president; Doris Smith, vice-president, and Emma Travis, secretary and treasurer.

The Junior Class election was held Friday noon and the following officers were elected: President, Joe Deetes; vice-president, Ila Shahan; secretary, Milton Coffman; treasurer, Clifford Fandrem; social promoter, Sylvia Strubin; sergeants-at-arms, Charles Gerard, Noah Deetes. The class is very proud of their new officers and are expecting a good time this year.

Elroy Nennis has become the royal page of the Loyal Junior, Sylvia Strubin. Every night when the last bell rings you may see Elroy trudging down the aisle without and umbrella at her disposal.

The freshman class is growing. Mike Cogill has joined us.

The honorable Walter Laxton won the first two games of marbles from Harry Hughes and Clifford Fandrem. The presidents of the different classes made speeches before the assembly, but the bashful seniors and juniors refused to make a speech.

We expect to start a Spanish class this week.

Mr. William Lindley, a freshman, comes to school in his car every morning.

We have a very inexpensive lighting apparatus in the High school this year, because of the unusual number of redheaded freshmen. We will agree that red and green don't blend.

The freshmen, even if they are green, seem to be wide awake this year. Instead of having their meeting at the regular time set, they were all here early Tuesday morning, when they held an election. Alice Mortensen was elected president; Mac Edmunson, vice-president, and Merle Casteel, secretary and treasurer.

Tuesday afternoon in the Stenography class Mrs. Plank called on Helen Roberts to read. The teacher, busy at her desk, glanced up when she heard a gruff voice speaking. It chanced to be Noah—but I guess he decided to change his name. And to tell a little more, the two girls in the class got so tickled they couldn't keep still, and later Mrs. Plank made the remark that she nearly had to leave the room to get over her laughing spell—and Noah doesn't know the joke yet.

We are wondering if the freshmen boys cannot indulge in anything else besides playing marbles. The tennis court could be fixed. The freshmen class this year sure is bashful. They haven't courage enough to get up and make an announcement for their elections.

The students of the Science of Physiology are not missing their books—but wowie!—how they will have to study when they do come.

Mr. Lewis Gibbs has been absent from school for two days. His report was illness, but we believe he was pheasant hunting. Anyway we are glad to have him back with us again.
