STATE CAPITAL NOTES

Salem .- When a single western state like Idaho has increased its appropriations for the current biennial period by over three hundred per cent, it is of the greatest importance to the people of Oregon to demand the injection of business administration into every department of the state government. The last legislature appropriated $8,375,968.15 as against $6,563,-277.92 by the preceding legislature, or an increase of $1,809,690.23. If it had not been for the restraining hand of the people enacting a six per cent limitation on increased taxes that the legislature can levy, there is no doubt this increase would have been doubled or trebled. In fact the most daring attempts were made to override the people's limitation, but they were defeated. Since the legislature adjourned the tax limit has been overridden by the appropriations made by the emergency board which has appropriated over half a million for needed purposes largely due to war activities.

has little or no value but what is put into it by labor.

State Labor Commissioner Gram has returned from a national safety first convention at .Cleveland, Ohio, where a week was spent in discussion and education along lines of making factories and industries safer for the employes. Mr. Gram is busy framing up a programme of an educational character for the whole state through his department as far as his funds will permit. The factory inspection division of this state department last year turned in $1.348 above expensed into the state treasury. The last leg-Islature increased the appropriations for the labor bureau by $5,100, to maintain a branch at Portland. If he can make a good showing for the safety first educational campaign, Mr. Gram may ask the legislature to assist in that work next year.

The Oregon Live Stock association took a rap at some of the skingames allowed by the concessions committee of the state fair board, and also upheld by resolution the work of the State Humane society in having three officers at the Roundup, two of whom were there two days before, witnessing the tryouts in the corrals, to see that might be held up to the rest of that there was no unnecessary cruelty practiced on the animals. The reports made to the State Humane society show several instances of cruel and inhuman treatment of animals, and recommend cutting out these features from future exhibitions of this character in the state. The Live Stock association backs up the Humane society in its investigations.

Voluntary mediation of all differences between employers and employes has been established and is working out fine at Salem. The permanent mediation council has settled one controversy that had dragged three months, in less than a week. The existence of such a piece of machinery in the Salem district with its large industries and more being built is a guaranty of stabilized conditions that is a protection to both laborer and capitalist. The committee on educational propaganda is planning to extend the same to other counties that is the most meaningless of all. WASHINGTON LETTER

TO IMPROVE PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

Washington .- (Special correspondence) .- With a view to ascertaining what may be necessary to effect an improvement in the public health work of the government, Senator France, of Maryland, has introduced a resolution for the creation of a joint committee of three senators and three representatives. The duty of the committee will be "to make a survey of and report on those activities of the several departments, divisions, bureaus, offices, and agencies of the government of the United States which relate to the protection and promotion of the public health, sanitation, care of the sick and injured, and the collection and dissemination of information relating thereto." After the survey has been made the committee is to report to congress any recommendations that may secure an increased efficiency in our public health work as a whole.

TAKE CARE OF OUR OWN

Representative Dallinger, of Massachusetts, believes that the United States should look after the needs of its own people before providing for the rest of the world. To that end he has introduced a bill "to prohibit the export of sugar from the United States or any place subject to its jurisdiction." As a further step to relieve the sugar shortage, Mr Dallinger has presented two resolutions directed to the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy, respectively, asking those officials to report to the house the amount of sugar in the possession of their departments.

AID TO INDUSTRIAL CRIPPLES Congessman Ramseyer, of Iowa, has taken a strong stand in advocacy of the bill proposing to extend aid to the states for the vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industrial pursuits. He bases his argument on the proposition that if it is feasible for the national government to vote large sums of money for the cure of diseased and crippled animals, how much more incumbent it is to assist crippled humanity. Mr. Ramseyer points out that only this year congress appropriated $1,000,000 to eradicate the foot and mouth disease, $641,045 cattle tick, and so on. The bill for human relief contemplates an expenditure of not more than $1,000,000 per year. "Are not unfortunate and diseased human beings," inquires the congressman, "entitled to as much consideration from this legislative body as unfortunate and diseased dumb animals? If the bill is enacted into law, it will accomplish a most worthy purpose and will help an unfortunate class of persons who have been heretofore neglected in this country."

and their secretary, Mr. Lea, have made a record for the past four years the state as an object lesson in public thrift. Besides keeping up the property and making some improvements, the state fair showed in round figures a surplus in 1916 of $10,000, in 1917 $13,000, 1918 of $19,000, and this year, besides finishing off the new pavilion, a net profit of $34,000. Out of special legislative appropriations of $49,000 so far only $34,000 has been expended. This is a formidable showing for the money-spenders who are managing some of the state departments that always show up with a deficit.

The state tax department and the county assessors are troubled over the annual valuation problems and one of the greatest of these is the question of one hundred per cent cash valuation solemnly enacted into law and more or less solemnly ignored all over the state. Applied to timberlands, cash valuation at 100 per cent vary from 40 to 50 cents per thousand ties but finally the strikeless common-

SCHOOL CENSUS IN PRO-GRESS

The work of taking the Springfield school census was started Tuesday and will probably be completed this evening.

P. H. Emery is making the enumeration in the out-lying districts and some of the High school students are taking the census in town.

Last year's census gave Springfield 522 children between the ages of four and twenty years. This year's enumeration is expected to show considerable increase.

RESERVATIONS WILL FIX IT The senate defeated the committee amendment relating to the Shantung provision in the peace treaty by a vote of 35 to 55, but statements made by many of those voting in the negative indicate conclusively that they have no sympathy with the proposal to give Shantung to Japan, and merely registered their opposition to the form of disapproval advocated by the committee. They contend that the most judicious method for disposing of the question is through reservations, and it is certain that when such a reservation is proposed it will receive the support of a majority.

WILL OPEN RAILWAY LANDS IN EARLY SPRING

In reply to inquiry addressed to Representative Hawley relative to the opening or the remaining agricultural lands in the Coos Bay and O. & C. railroad grants, the commissioner of the general land office, Clay Taliman, replies that, having canvassed the situation pretty thoroughly while in the West recently, it seemed to be the concensus of opinion, in which he concurs, "that if we should start to open the lands at the present time, it would bring the filing and entry time about the middle of the winter, which would be inadvisable, and that we had best get out our maps and data early in January, with a view to the opening in the early spring, and this is our present plan."
