

THE TATTLER

HIGH SCHOOL CELEBRATES

Old S. H. S. came out ahead in their celebrating—did it all the afternoon before Armistice Day. The boys and girls each prepared a program which they combined alternately. The exercises were opened to the public and several of the students' parents and friends attended. Some of the special features were as follows:

Opening song by all the girls—Hymn of the Marseillaise.

"Why We Celebrate Today," a short address in which Mr. Roth enumerated some of the events leading up to the war and Armistice Day.

Song—"Good Morning, Mr. Zip," by all the boys.

Reading—"The Man Who Did the Cheering," by Edyth Cyr.

Solo—"My Paradise," by Roberta Wilson.

Demobilization of the Service Flag. The Rev. Walter Bailey gave an address in which he touched the heart of every true patriotic student present and made them see how the boys whom those blue and gold stars represented were like the real stars themselves and what glory would be theirs. The president of the senior class took down the Service Flag and held it outstretched while the secretary of the class read the names of those represented.

Song—"Long Boy," by a quart and a half of boys.

A stunt—"Oh Johnny," by several girls.

Song—"Pack Up Your Troubles," by all the boys.

Songs selected—By a group of college girls.

High song—By the student body.

The program began at 2:30 and lasted until about 3:30, after which every one went home joyous over the coming holiday.

PERSONAL

Vernita Morrison is out of school on account of smallpox in the family.

Fae Anderson is absent from school today.

Among the visitors attending the program given at the high school on Monday afternoon were five members of the alumni. They were James Lewis, Walter Gosler, Gerald Van Valzah, Alice McBee and Walter Bailey.

Mr. Roth's room is badly damaged from the basket ball playing which has been taking place there.

We will have a new member of the freshman class, Winton Cole enrolling this week.

JOKES

Oh! These freshman girls! What won't they do next? Why Irene Kirchner has a little mirror that she sits on the desk and gazes into instead of studying algebra.

Mr. Roth has fits of temper as well as the rest of us. He came pretty near screwing the seats in his room down again instead of celebrating Armistice Day.

Misses Mona McHenry and Bertha Lindley on going to the homes of the former at Harrisburg Friday night, got so deeply mired in the mud that they were not able to attend school Monday. But thanks to the Ford, they are back to school.

Ah, Hazel! Some day you will make a good movie star.

Some of the girls are trying out a little when they can get the basket ball away from the boys.

Florence Hill was pretty mad Wednesday morning. Somebody told her she looked 22 years old.

The girls must be afraid of their voices for they didn't answer our yell Monday.—Paul Dillard.

The girls are saving their voices until they get something worth yelling for.

Ding Mulligan has been visiting the S. H. S. quite frequently for the past two weeks. We wonder if he really intends to go to school again this year.

Mr. Roth—How far back did the history of Egypt begin?

Bright Student—On page 35.

In English One—All was calm. They were waiting for the bell to ring when a dreaming frosh was suddenly awakened from his slumber and a loud "Say" rang through the room.

In Algebra One—Miss Machen: What is 3a-6b?

Dreaming Student—2's.

A meeting of the boys was called to practice some songs for Monday afternoon's program. And as usual when the boys have a special meeting every frosh girl in school had apparently forgotten some book or else wanted to hear some real singing; for there were about half a dozen of them in the room nearly all the time.

Theo Cogill was absent from school Wednesday morning; he was seen riding a bicycle along the highway Tuesday.

The alumni reported it was impossible for old S. H. S. to give a program without them but it was proven Monday afternoon by a program in honor of Armistice Day. And the poor alumni had to admit S. H. S. still had some pep.

We heard some one say, "May I have this dance?" We wonder what they were dreaming of.

Miriam and Dorothy seem to have a hard time getting out of the ditch, especially Miriam.

Quite a number of the girls have been heard to say that they thought the boys did fine in their part of the program.

Appropriate Armistice Day exercises were held in all grades of the Springfield schools on Monday afternoon.

In the primary department these exercises were held in their respective rooms. At the Lincoln school the pupils of the sixth grade and of the junior high school were addressed by Superintendent Hamlin.

Mrs. Stein, teacher of the fourth grade at the Lincoln school, who has
