FARM DWELLERS ASK FOR BOOKS

Announcement of the "Books for Everybody" Movement Brings Letter Flood.

INFORMATIVE WORKS SOUGHT

Requests for Reading Matter Range From Volume on Drainage to Collins' "Book of the Stars."

The announcement of the entrance of the American Library Association upon the "Books for Everybody" movement and still later news accounts of the activities of the organization along these lines resulted in a widespread appeal from residents of the rural districts of the country for books on farming. Whether the American farmer is simply extending his ambition to do a good job better or whether the better crops of his neighbor, who has attended an agricultural college or school, has spurred him on is a matter difficult to determine. But the fact remains the farmer is asking for books. The great majority of American farmers are either without libraries and book service or they are inadequately served.

One of the points which the American Library Association in its "Books for Everybody" movement is strongly urging is the extension of the county library system in states where enabling laws have been passed—some twenty-one in number—and the proper legislation in others which have not yet taken the step. The system, with its central library and radiating lines to stations in the remotest sections of the county, assures good books to every man, woman and child who cares to reach out a hand and grasp one.

Letters Show Need of Service. The American Library Association is not giving its entire attention to the urban dweller, nor is it neglecting the centers of population for the rural districts and communities. It is, however, unquestionably eager to create a steady flow of informative reading to rural America. That the need for such service exists and that it is anxiously sought is evidenced in every letter of this nature received by state library commissions and by the A. L. A. A few excerpts have been selected because they seem to express most truly the needs of thousands of others.

When Lydia Carlson, whose farm is beyond Mason, Wis., asked for copies of "Productive Farm Crops," "Productive Vegetable Growing" and "Principles of the Practice of Poultry Raising" she echoed the book needs of her neighbors. Then she revealed the fact that her eyes are not always in the furrows by asking for a copy of Collins' "Book of the Stars."

What Others Desired. There was a pressing need behind the letter from James Dunn, who lives ten miles from Convent, La., the nearest town, which has a population of only 500 people. He asked for a copy of "Practical Farm Drainage." The task of keeping his acres dry was beyond him. Walter Williams of Osseo, Wis., wanted to know if he could make fuel alcohol from frozen potatoes and spoiled fruits, and if he could, were there any books on the subject. The requests run the whole range of farm operations. Some wish to know how to treat scale others desire facts on hog raising. Books giving information on crop rotation are in demand.

The American Library Association is raising a $2,000,000 fund to finance the "Books for Everybody" movement; which during the next three years will be carried on in co-operation with existing libraries and library agencies. The money is not being raised through the medium of an intensive drive but through the individual efforts of the librarians, library trustees and friends of libraries.

SPRINGFIELD HIGH BOYS WIN FROM CAMPUS HIGH

Yesterday the Springfield high "giants" walloped the Campus high "infants," or at least they called S. H. S. nine giants, but it happens to be just the opposite. All the Campus boys are equal size or larger than our boys. It was the best game of the season. It was a tight score all through the game, resulting in a score of 9 to 4 in S. H. S. favor.

Girl Seriously Hurt in Auto Accident.
 Eleanor Hayes, 2-year-old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hill of Springfield, is in a serious condition at the Mercy hospital in Eugene as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident last Saturday. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Hayes, and their two children had been out to the home of Mr. Hayes' parents west of Eugene and were returning to their home in Eugene when they collided with an automobile driven by Charles Lubbe of San Francisco.

The little girl suffered a fracture of the skull and sustained a great gash on her face, extending from her forehead through the eye to her cheek, which, the doctors fear, will cause the loss of sight in that eye. It was thought at first that she might not recover but her condition Wednesday was somewhat improved.

Suit has been brought against Mr. Lubbe by the parents for $10,000 damages. He is charged with having turned to the left in front of the Hayes car thus causing the collision.

Many Pupils Write on Exams.
 Twelve pupils recently took the regular eighth grade examinations at the Lincoln school. A number of other pupils took the exams in various subjects, some having been conditioned before, thus making the total number writing on subjects about seventy. About forty pupils of the sixth and other grades wrote on test questions in physiology.

Local Woman Will Tour U. S.

the Great Lakes, Boston, Cambridge, Mass., Washington's home at Mt. Vernon, and Quebec, Canada. She will also visit her birthplace in Wisconsin and the birthplace of her father in Pennsylvania. On the return trip, which will be by a southern route, many of the interesting archeological sites in Arizona and New Mexico are included in her itinerary. California will be visited last before her return home.

While a student at Springfield high school, from which she graduated in 1914, Miss Carson was leader of the high school debating team for two years, one of which years the team contested for the state championship. At the University of Oregon, where she received her degree in 1918, Miss Carson debated on the varsity co-ed team for four years. Two years of this time she was leader of the team, debating both times with the University of Washington women's team. In addition she participated in a number of oratorical contests, some of which were intercollegiate. Miss Carson is a member of Zeta Kappa Psi, the only national honorary public speaking fraternity for women in the United States.

Training for this work was received by Miss Carson from Dr. Kellems of the Eugene Bible university, with whom she studied the art of reading and impersonating for two years. Three years were spent under Prof. A. F. Reddie, instructor in dramatics at the University of Oregon, and two years in home study alone.

"My aim is to present life as we experience it in such a way as to find a place in the hearts of the people," said Miss Carson. "My selections are taken from modern writers, principally, and are big and simple in their nature. While some of the work is dramatic yet my program is restricted in so far as sorrow or tragedy are concerned. My idea is to give clean enjoyment, to awaken in the hearts of the people those higher and more joyful emotions which they have previously experienced in their own lives, and to lighten the cares of the day just a little.

"I have studied life from personal contact with it, having lived on a farm, in logging camps and small towns. I have taught children in Sunday school classes, have taught music and have traveled raising funds and as field worker for the Eugene Bible university, during all of which time I have tried not to lose the 'common touch,' which I deem so essential to every successful life."

Miss Ethel Wakefield, a senior at the University of Oregon, will act as advance agent for Miss Carson. She is a graduate of the Eugene Bible university, also a member of Zeta Kappa Psi, and a member of the university women's debating team.

Ethell of Springfield and interment was in the Masonic cemetery at Eugene.
