more rapidly than the permanent teeth because their structure is not so dense and in addition the pulp is more quickly exposed because it is larger in proportion to the size of the tooth. Nearly all dentists are agreed that the treatment of a temporary tooth with an exposed pulp is hopeless. The best that can be done in such a case is to give temporary relief. If the temporary teeth are lost, they cannot be satisfactorily replaced.

The permanent teeth lie in the baby jaw just beyond the roots of the temporary teeth and are only partially formed even at the time of their eruption. If the baby teeth are allowed to abscess, the growing permanent teeth are bathed in pus and will probably be seriously damaged or totally ruined. Children are highly susceptible to pus. Abscesses of temporary teeth produce general infections that result in lowered vitality, rheumatism, heart inflammations, and many other diseases that are very serious and sometimes fatal. Don't neglect your children's temporary teeth. Both the present and future welfare of your child depends upon the health of the mouth (Copyright 1920, Rea Proctor McGee)

NATURE TOOK ITS COURSE

It is not alone the hour of extreme physical peril that tries men's souls. The temptation to acquire great wealth or achieve fame may call for the exercise of normal courage of the highest type.

An insight into the nobility of character, unselfish devotion to principle and remarkable self-possession of Warren G. Harding is gleaned from one of the history making "asides" of the Republican National Convention, as yet unpublished.

The crisis came after the eighth ballot. It was apparent that General Wood could not be nominated and none understood better than Governor Lowden, the impossibility of his own selection. The Convention was in a turmoil. Realization had come for the first time to many delegates and to the gallery that neither of the two leading candidates could be nominated and that the selection of another when the convention reconvened, was imminent. The drift was to Harding, but in the excitement that prevailed, almost anything might happen. The managers of Governor Lowden and Senator Harding, each unknown to the other, had induced their candidates to come to the auditorium for the purpose of consultation. In the tense moments that followed, these two distinguished gentlemen met just outside the Convention hall. Governor Lowden had made a hard fight. With the nomination almost within grasp at one time, he now realized the hopelessness of his position. He believed in Harding. He cared more than all else for the success of his party.

"Senator Harding" said the Governor, "I will go on the Convention floor and withdraw my name. It will result in your nomination."

The opportunity had come to Harding for which great men have planned, labored and sacrificed. The nomination of the presidency of the United States was offered him. But this was not Harding's way. Placing his hand upon Governor Lowden's shoulder he said, "Wait Governor. Let nature take its course." It required rare courage. In the excitement of the moment, the convention might be stampeded to another. But Harding wanted the nominee to be the choice of a majority of the delegates. It called for magnificent self-possession. Harding was the coolest and apparently the most unconcerned man in the Convention. It was a generous impulse, the devotion of a life long principle of fair play and a square deal from which the excitement of the moment or the lust for ambition or power could not swerve him.

"Nature was allowed to take its course" and Harding was the unanimous choice of an uninfluenced Convention on the 10th ballot.

MILADY'S CHIN WILL BE COMEY THIS YEAR

Dame Fashion's ruling in fur coats this winter has at least sealed the mouth of mere man. Time was when the low rolling collars of women's fur coats and exposed throats brought forth all sorts of jibes from man's sippant lips. But this model—newest from leading designers in fur wear—elaborates on high choker collar and big cuffs—concealing all milady's face—save the eyes. The coat is of Hudson Seal with squirrel collar, cuffs and trim mings.

ROBERT BURNS Lodge, No. 78, A. M. F., Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Universal and Symbolic Free Masons meets first and third Monday evening in Morrison's hall. Visiting Brothers welcome.

Lee Clark, Secretary. F. A. Rankin, R. W. M.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for "Scientific and Catarrh Cure".

Your Teeth

The News is pleased to announce that it has made arrangements with Dr. Proctor McGee to publish a series of his articles about teeth and their care. Dr. McGee is accepted by dentists and physicians as an authority on oral hygiene. These articles are in the interests of good health and merit the careful reading of all.

DISEASE OF CHILDHOOD

(By Rea Proctor McGee, M.D. D.D.S.)
The highest death rate is between the ages of two and six years. At two years the eruption of the temporary teeth is just completed and at six years the eruption of the permanent teeth is just beginning. This period, from two until six is the time that the temporary teeth are in their prime. If the twenty little teeth are free from decay and the child is able to chew its food so that the proper nourishment will be extracted, the little body will have strength to resist or overcome nearly all of the infections that may come to childhood.

The temporary teeth are of greater importance to the child than are the a child must not only be nourished to keep up the ordinary life processes, but it must have nourishment for rapid growth in addition. The temporary teeth decay much

CAN BE CURED

We can cure any skin disease. Don't be a skeptic; come and see for yourself.

Why suffer, when you can get results—we kill the germs.

We prevent sickness by inhaling the fumes produced by the destructive distillation of hydro carbons, and electricity, combined with medicines.

We always fumigate the house before we lift a quarantine, why not fumigate the body also? It can be done at the Electro Medicated Inhalatorium.
