their occupation, to bring to the attention of their employer any needed safeguards and to offer suggestions for the prevention of accidents and fire as well as matters pertaining to sanitation and health.

The Booth-Kelly Lumber company maintains a bulletin board on which bulletins are posted as received from the National Council of Safety. These bulletins show the dangers from defective tools and machinery, picture how accidents happen, instruct how to avoid same and urge every employee to bear in mind at all times, that it is "Better to be safe than sorry."

Since this plan has been adopted accidents have decreased amazingly.

To the chairman of the Publicity Committee:—

The other day I'm riding on a street car—nothing unusual about that—I hear some baby whisper "No, of course not, but! The 'bur' can be a whole story. You see it's this way: I'm supposed to be writing up "stuff" I hear about the 4Ls. As a writer I have a horrible reputation amongst our boys that's why I've selected myself to do this job. I know, not a few of them already have their eyes bugged out looking over the local papers hereabouts for some of my work. Well, now that the introduction is over, I'll go some speed.

The man on the car, and he looks like a working man to me, obviously

The Best Worker

Money really works. Many people fail to become prosperous because they do not fully understand this fact.

You may be a hard worker but money works harder than you do. You have to stop to rest, to eat, to sleep. Money works all the time day and night, Sunday and holidays, works for you so long as you own it and ceases only when you lose ownership. Put your money in a savings account and start it working for you. Begin today.

enough had read an advertisement somewhere in town something like this:

Coming. Under the auspices of the 4Ls.

This sounds a bit unusual to me, so I gets interested and finally butts in with a soft and low peddle on their conversation. All preliminaries are soon dispensed and I turns loose a volley of uncondensed facts concerning who and the why fors of the 4Ls; guess he knows a regular battleship loaded with mental dynamite. I explodes a bit of 4L history and me thinks he sizes me up for one of the high-brows or someone with a technical training peculiar to the manufacture of lumber, for I'm fairly well dressed and appear about as well nourished. Anyway, I tells him the 4L organization is the best innovation of the 19th century. Its the only cooperative enterprise in existence actually solving the labor question day by day. During a slight pause for more breath, I notice his philosophical and retrospective cast of countenances. He lapses into a state of profound meditation, assuming his thoughts are enveloped in the wobbly doctrine i. e. the interests of the employers and employees are diametrically opposed, therefore, the 4L proposition is doomed to failure. I starts in again without beating around the bush or drawing any enthusiasm away from the other passengers.

We 4Ls believe in the new relationship of employer and employee. Our interests are not identical, but they are mutual insofar as the industry gives both a living. In the past, there has been much strife due to a class consciousness. One class arrayed against the other in a relentless struggle for existence. The wobbly has said: "There is nothing in common with the bosses". The level headed worker and employer have come to realize that only through cooperation and harmony can we make progress. This evolutionary process is far superior to revolutionary paralysis of the industry.

Just then the car stops and I jumps off. As I goes about my business I'm thinking about the way that worker pricked up his scientifically constructed selsonograph and lets those thoughts affect his brain centers.

The 4Lers are not a bunch of ignoramuses allowing the organization to be dominated by the employers. In fact, they are the cream of society.

"Workers and employers unite in the 4L organization. You have nothing to lose but your chains." This will some day be inscribed on our banner.

Hurrah! for the peaceful operation of the lumber industry. Others may follow, but we lead. By, the Pull-off man.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"DOLLAR."

WHILE the United States was the first to coin the piece of money known as the "dollar," the word itself was coined long before, as evidenced by the fact that Shakespeare uses it frequently. In "Macbeth," for example, appears the statement:

"Nor would we deign him burial of his men till he disbursed, at St. Colme's Inch, Ten thousand dollars to our general use."

This quotation, which sounds suspiciously like a modern "strike order," proves that Shakespeare was familiar with the dollar, despite the fact that there were no coins of that name known prior to July 5, 1785, when the United States congress passed the resolution referring to "the first money put out by the new government. Where, then, did Shakespeare get the word?

The answer lies in the fact that "dollar" is an Anglo-Saxon corruption of the German "thaler," first coined about 1486 in the valley (or thaler) of Joachimsthal. The coin met with popular favor and, during the reign of Charles V, emperor of Germany, king of Spain and lord of Spanish-America, it became the standard currency of the world. Shakespeare merely adopted a slight change of the name, thus antedating both the United States and Great Britain—for the first and only English dollar was coined at the Bank of England in 1804. THE GIRL ON THE JOB

How to Succeed—How to Get Ahead—How to Make Good

By JESSIE ROBERTS

HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS

WHO shall say that adventure and variety are not allied to the home and domestic science? The girl who chooses household economics for her career need not give up hope of travel and excitement. Witness Miss Grace Ferguson, who has only lately returned to New York City from an absence of six years in Porto Rico, where she was teaching the elements of home economics to an entire nation.

Miss Ferguson covered fifty-odd towns in her work, and established schools in all the places visited. She made an exhaustive study of foods and their value, and of prices, and she taught women in that tropic isle how to get the most for their money when they went marketing, and how to have the best meals at the least cost the year round.

A woman who takes a course in domestic science of the advanced type can now-a-days look forward to plenty of work and a good income. She is going to do quite as well, if not better, than her sister who took a business course and went in an office, and she has practically no male competition to fear.

The American home is being put more and more on a scientific basis. The women in the homes want to be shown, they want to know how they can get the most out of their incomes, save themselves hard work, manage for the best. They are glad to come to lectures and demonstrations and to attend classes.

The day for the ill-trained is over. Any woman who wants to make a success must get thorough training. Excellent courses are offered in almost any part of the United States and Canada not too far removed from a town. The best courses are to be had in various colleges at a small price. It is work for which many women have a special genius and love. For such a woman to go into teaching or office work "because I have to earn a living" is a pity. She can earn it, and a good one, in teaching household economics in all its many branches. (Copyright.)

THE WOODS

THE CHICKADEE.

There's somethin' 'bout the chickadee
That's, somehow, awful cheerin';
Around the shanty door it butts
An' gethers up the crusts an' crumbs
Cook scatters in the clearin'.

It gethers up the crusts an' crumbs
An' jest as glad it chatters
As if it fed on biscuit fine
All soaked in milk er dipped in wine
An' served on silver platters.

My share of life is crusts an' crumbs
I find somehow er other;
An' how I wish that I could be
Like you are, Mr. Chickadee,
My cheerful little brother!
