A Judicious Inquiry
A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade, says he has often heard druggists ask a customer, who wished to buy for a child or an adult and if for a child, they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it and for colds, croup and whooping cough it is unsurpassed.

gon experiment station should be kept years in advance of general farm practice. In order that the new methods, crops and varieties may be fully tested before offered to the farmer. Says James T. Jardine, director, in his report for 1918-'20 just off the college press. Much information that has added to the profits of farming, and even more facts under investigation with promise of eventual solution, are explained in the report. Copies free on request.

NEW FARM ACCOUNT BOOK

A new addition of the Oregon farm account book has just been issued by the O. A. C. extension service and United States department of agriculture, as simple, complete and efficient as can be made. Just what the farm did for the farmer—whether it made or lost him money, and how much—and which of the leading farm operations—livestock, dairy, crops, fruit, forest or pasture—were profitable, are only a few of the useful points developed in proper accounts. The farmer's gross and net profits, labor income, interest on investment, and other interesting items, are ascertained. Copies may be had of county agents in counties carrying record projects, from banks cooperating with the college and government, or from the college extension service direct on application to O. A. C., Corvallis, and payment of actual production cost.

THE TIMES NOT GETTING BAD

Notwithstanding all the rumors of closed shops, less employment, reduced wages and the like, readjustment of our national economics is proceeding normally. No organization has its finger on the pulse of affairs—not even the general government—as completely as the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve Board says that deflation is proceeding as it should without any indication of a panic.

We all know that prices were far too high. Even steel, the basic industry next to farming, was twice as high as it ought to be. These prices had to come down and as they fell, with the certainty of lower dividends than during the old profiteering days when net earnings were no good unless they were at least 30 to 50 per cent. It was only human nature to howl. We are now hearing the dismal howling of the fellows who know that they must soon submit to competition—the life of trade—and to reasonable profit.

The fact is that business is keeping up. Our exports are still large—they increased the last two months over previous months. Bank clearings are only a small percentage below flush 1919, notwithstanding that prices—wholesale prices, anyway—have gone away down from 1919, meaning that less money is passed in transactions of equal size. Money rates are receding.

Prices are lowering normally, all are agreed. But they won't go down to pre-war figures for a great many years, if ever. And the man and woman who won't buy shoes and clothes and other necessities until the prices sink to pre-war figures will have to emigrate to where clothes and food and other necessities are not needed. Such a person is only doing his best to bring a panic and bad times for himself.

No Insinuation
"And will one collar be sufficient, madam?" asked the haberdasher, politely.
"Young man," replied his untidy customer sternly, "do you insinuate as 'ow I 'ave more than one 'usb'n?"
