We are glad to announce that our effort to see Springfield with an organized fire department seems to be assured. Since our last issue there has been handed in to us sixteen volunteer applications, and with these volunteers we expect others to come forward and affix their names to the list.

We wish to thank those who have already signified their desire to see Springfield better protected and trust that others will as willingly assure us of their support.

The list of names and date of the first meeting will be published next week.

A HERMIT FOR 20 YEARS

An Editorial on Advertising

What would make the greatest impression on a man who had been shut away from human beings and denied the use of newspapers for 20 years—what would most forcibly attract his attention—on regaining the society of his fellow men?

"Well," you say, "he is fairly certain to be interested in learning what sort of government we have down in Washington."

True, and probably he will show mild excitement if you can tell him there's been a big war in Europe.

But it won't be until you get down to a recital of things that come closer to him personally that you'll bring him to his feet with eager questioning.

Tell him a mighty empire has fallen and—so long as it isn't his empire—a drop curtain of highly embroidered indifference will mask his face.

But tell him the automobile has been so simplified that he can now buy one for the price of a horse and buggy and he'll probably bombard you with questions.

A revolution in China may be a world event, but it wouldn't mean as much to him as the perfecting of a shaving apparatus that would do away with the necessity of purchasing new blades or honing old ones.

If you had been a hermit for the past 20 years the news of a big flood wouldn't really mean so much to you as the information that you can now hear any famous opera singer in your own home at a cost of a few cents an hour.

Which is only another way of saying that the phonograph is of more personal interest than a flood.

You see how it is: Newspapers carry a "news of merchandise" that is just as interesting, just as vital, as the "news of events" which the editors gather for us.

And since this "news of merchandise" finds its only expression in the form of advertising, we must admit that the advertising columns are quite worthy of our serious attention as the largest news heading or the most ponderous editorial.

Shut your eyes to advertising—and you shut out the news of commercial progress and development—the news of things that make life worth living.

Advertising has changed the face of the map. Advertising has revolutionized the methods of doing business. Advertising has magnified the possibilities of business far beyond anything our most optimistic forefathers ever dreamed of.

Advertising has brought to the humblest home comforts and conveniences that were unknown to kings in former generations.

Advertising has raised the standard of living, simplified the manner of living, reduced the cost and time and trouble of supplying our daily needs.

Advertising has made a new world. It has been the greatest civilizing force in the world's history.

Advertising brings the world's markets to your home and tells you where your needs can be best supplied.

Every day that you fail to read advertising you miss something that will contribute more comfort and pleasure to life. Just now the advertising columns are filled with suggestions for the wise buying of necessities and luxuries—seasonable things of all kinds that it would be advantageous to have. Read the advertising and learn how economically you can possess them.—Morning Register.

Don't forget to read the News wants ads, they may prove of value to you.
