The Salvation Army Needs Us: We Need the Salvation Army

When you subscribe to the Salvation Army's fund you know that your money is going to the relief of real distress. There are other worthy relief agencies, but leave it to the Army to take up the heavy end of the actual work. That's what the Army is for. It has the reputation of doing an amazing amount of good with a small amount of money.

If you are interested in that sort of an organization, read this article, for frankly this is an appeal for help. The Salvation Army is asking the people to make it possible for it to continue its great relief work. There are two big reasons why all who are able should come to the rescue at this particular time. The first is, that times are harder this year than they have been, and more cases will be in need of relief, and the other is, that your money will go much farther in relieving distress now than at any time for the last five years.

The Army is one organization that receives only to give forth again in great abundance. Your dollars are translated into the Salvation Army service—the moral, physical, mental, spiritual help of which there is so great need. Suffering men, women and children are the objects of the Salvation Army's efforts. Any soldier will tell you what was the spirit of the Salvation Army during the war. It's the same in peace. Service; service. The Army will relieve the distress if you will only supply the means. The Elks, good fellows all, are cooperating with the Salvation Army just now in raising $4100 in this county for the Army's relief work. The Elks were back of the campaign last year. Apparently they were satisfied with the way the money was spent. The campaign carries little overhead expense; virtually all of the money subscribed goes to actual relief work, and it is almost all to be spent in this county. All will be here except what goes to the White Shield rescue home for girls. No kind heart grudges what goes to that home, for it takes unfortunate girls from every county in the state and relieves them at the time of their greatest trial.

The Salvation Army is not asking much. It is spending the money at home. Charity, like mercy, "blesses him that gives and him that takes." It's a worthy cause. Let us help if we can.

Several years ago a proposition was put on foot to carve a new state out of portions of Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho. The Spokane papers boosted it, but it did not seem to find much favor except among a portion of the people in that region. The papers in southern Idaho, western Washington and Oregon generally treated it as a movement to further the ambitions of Spokane. It soon died out but last winter, before the people outside were aware of it, it sprang into vigorous life again, and received the indorsement of the Idaho legislature. The plan is to include the ten northern counties of Idaho, a territory considerably overlapping the eastern boundary of Oregon, an equal or larger portion of eastern Washington and a small portion of western Montana. It is expected to submit the matter to some kind of a plebiscite, and congress will have to be consulted at some point in the proceedings. A perplexing situation for the state of Idaho would be created by such a curtailing. Two of its principal institutions are located in the territory to be cut off: the state university, now located at Moscow; and its principal normal school, at Lewiston.

The proposition to build a new state around Spokane brings to mind another proposition for a new state about the time of the original Spokane proposition. It was proposed to cut off the northern portion of California, including the wilds of the Siskiyou mountains and the Pitt river county, with some adjacent territory from Oregon and Nevada, and make a new state, with the capital at Yreka. Yreka is a little old run-down town, and was a considerable mining town in the days when sluice mining in the Siskiyou was at its height. Its career in this respect has been about like that of Jacksonville. At the time of the projected boom, Yreka had one little hand power newspaper, one man and a girl capacity—not a very powerful engine for carrying through the project of creating a new state.

Whooping Cough
This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, codeine or other opiate is given is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course, not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is very little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.

Willard Batteries

Why We Are Strong for Willard

We've seen a lot of batteries, but never another like the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.

Threaded Rubber insulates the plates instead of separating them the way wood separators do.

No carbonizing, puncturing, checking or cracking, because Threaded Rubber Insulation retains all the valuable insulating qualities of rubber and is not affected by acid.

That's one reason why we're strong for Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries.
