

PROGRESS OF WORK ON NEW POWER LINE

The work on the new power line is coming out of the woods into the open, so that we can begin to see what is going on. The work of putting down the poles, to prepare for setting the poles to connect with the Mountain States, was commenced late Saturday afternoon. The line of poles runs up the south side of Main street from a point opposite the substation to the end of the pavement at 10th street. From that point the line turns squarely south, and runs in a straight line through the pass over the hills south of the mill pond. It swerves a little eastward at the crossing of the pond, to run clear of the lumber docks. Only two poles will be out of line. One is south of the mill pond, the other will be in the middle of the east end of the pond. A heavy pile will be driven in the pond; and a long heavy pole will be spliced to it.

All the poles on the south side of the pond are set; none on the north side at this writing, Tuesday evening. We understand that this part of the work on the whole line from here to Cottage Grove is practically completed, and this part of the line will be ready for the wire this week. The wire men who are here and in the vicinity to do this work are expecting to be employed on the line south of Cottage Grove after this northern section is completed.

WITH THE TOURISTS ON THE AUTO CAMP

M. C. Van Dyke, wife and four children, three of them of school age, drove in the camp ground Friday evening, and stayed over night. They lived for a number of years about Baker. During the war, Mr. Van Dyke worked in the shipyards at Coos Bay. His health broke under this work, and since that they have shifted about a good deal, mostly in California and Arizona, in search of a healthful location. They have just come up from Southern California. The climate conditions there the past winter were not conducive to the health of their bodies, nor the financial conditions to the health of their purse. They were minded to try the region about Albany.

What looked like a queer tourist's outfit, on the camp Monday morning, on investigation, disclosed these facts: E. J. Ulman and Elwood Hamilton, from the neighborhood of Creswell, returning home from a job of work, with a big tractor, a gang of three plows attached and an auto stopped for repairs which they had not yet completed. They had looked on the camp ground Sunday night.

The camp ground is not yet supplied with wood.

PRESENT CONDITIONS AT HANSEN'S AUTO PARK

The backwardness of the season has delayed the work of preparing Hansen's tourist park, across the river, for the season. Still, a great deal of the work of fitting it up has been done, and progress is being made along. A good-sized light structure for a dwelling house has been put up on the farther part of the camp; and C. W. Anderson and family, who have been living in Springfield for several months past, have been installed in it, and will have charge of the camp. A smaller building near by will have a toilet and bath room at each end, with a room between fitted up for a cook-room for tourists.

Some difficulty has been experienced in getting a water supply. One well has been driven near the highway, and is now in operation. Another was being sunk towards the west side of the park in the early part of this week. A few tourists have camped there. Four or five cars were reported there at one time several days ago.

The Eugene papers have taken offense at Mr. Hansen's sign: "Eugene auto tourist park, Melvin Hansen Mgr." They complain that it would detract from the Eugene municipal park. The sign is still there.

CARRIERS' SUGGESTIONS TO PATRONS OF ROUTES

To the Patrons of Rural Routes No. 1 and 2:

The postoffice department, having designated the week of May 1 to 6 inclusive, as Postal Improvement week, we, the carriers of the above named routes, wishing to be 100 per cent efficient or as nearly so as possible and desiring the cooperation of our patrons, submit the following suggestions for your consideration:

1. The approach to all mail boxes should be kept in good condition at all times, so that it may be easily reached by the carrier. All ruts and holes should be filled with gravel.

2. All first class mail—letters and post cards—should, if possible, be stamped before being placed in the mail box. You can buy these supplies from the carriers, and should keep a good supply on hand. Time spent by the carriers at your boxes in counting pennies and affixing stamps delays the delivery of mail to patrons further along the line.

3. Be sure that your letters are properly addressed, and that your return address is given. The proper place for the stamp is in the upper right hand corner. If you have a number of letters, they should all be faced one way and leaned against the side of the box, rather than laid flat on the bottom of the box. This makes it easier for the carrier to get hold of them, thus saving time.

4. The postal regulations require that your name be plainly printed on your box. This is a great aid to the regular carriers, and is especially valuable to the substitute carriers when one is on duty.

5. Last, but not least, if you will insist upon having your correspondents address all mail to your route number and box number, it will help greatly in avoiding mistakes and delays in the delivery of your mail.

These suggestions are not made in the spirit of fault finding or criticisms, but only to secure as far as possible your cooperation in expediting the delivery of your mail.

We welcome your suggestions for improvement of the service at any time, and assure you that the same shall be given our careful consideration. All this for our mutual benefit and for the good of the service.

Yours very truly,
B. G. Sankey, R. L. C. No. 2.

About two months ago, Paul Papows, a Russian, leased for a year, from the owner and former occupant, Geo. Deputy sheriff George Croser and some assistants went to the place last Thursday evening, and after a prolonged search, found nine gallons of liquor under the barn. Papows was arrested, tried and fined $100. The liquor was tested, found strongly alcoholic and poured out.

THE CIVIC LEAGUE TO ADVERTISE TOWN

These envelopes will carry the name and advantages of Springfield to all parts of Oregon and to points all over the United States. Let every one buy, as many of them as he can use.

MAGLADRY FOR SENATOR

Among the men whose names have been brought before the people of Lane county as candidates for state senator on the Republican ticket, J. S. Magladry stands now in the foreground. Though just in the prime of life, and full of mental and physical vigor, he has been active in the business life of the county for many years, and but few men in the county are better known. He is man highly esteemed, in both his personal and business relations.

Mr. Magladry has been engaged in the lumber business during the greater part of his business life in Lane county; first, for several years as owner and manager of the Mohawk Lumber company, at Donna, and, for a number of years past, as principal owner and manager of the Bohemia Lumber company, at Dorena. He has commanded the confidence and esteem of those with whom he has dealt, as an employer and otherwise. His interests and his sympathies have been with the producers and the laboring men, the bone and sinew of the population.

For a number of years, along about ten years ago, the firm of Magladry & Shumate was engaged in the real estate business in Eugene. During that time, the firm had large interests in Springfield, and were intimately connected with the business life of the town. His later operations have brought him into intimate relations with Cottage Grove. So that, wherever he may go, about Eugene, Springfield or Cottage Grove, up and down the Mohawk valley or the Row river valley, or throughout the central and southern parts of the county, there are a multitude of men, of all grades and classes, who are glad to give a warm hand clasp to Jack Magladry.

Mr. Magladry has not been so completely absorbed in his own affairs as to prevent him from taking a lively interest in public affairs. His business experience, extending over a wide field, and his opportunity to mingle with various classes of people, representing varied interests, qualify him to form an intelligent estimate of the needs of the county and state.

Since the withdrawal of John B. Bell, who was also intimately known here, Walter B. Jones, the present incumbent, is Mr. Magladry's only competitor before the primaries. In this situation, it ought not to be difficult for the Republican voter to make a choice. The incumbent is commonly supposed to have an advantage, at the outset, as a candidate for re-election; but it is hardly to be supposed that Mr. Magladry will be placed at any disadvantage on this count in this case.

The primaries are only two weeks away.

Mrs. Nellie M. Phillips, of Denver, Colorado, is here visiting at the home of her son on East C street.

Wells, in Eugene, yesterday, pleaded guilty to the unlawful possession of liquor, and was sentenced to two months in jail and a fine of $300. He will probably serve out the fine.

A PUZZLER TO EUGENE POLICE OFFICIALS

Sunday's Register told of the arrest, on the streets of Eugene, of "an individual" whose sex could not be determined. Some thought, from the mode of putting up the hair, that "it" was a woman; others, from the kind of clothes it wore, that it was a man. Neither of these features is any sure "sign of a duck's nest" in these days. This uncertainty involved a question of jurisdiction between the chief of police and the police matron. The question at issue was whose duty it was to ascertain the sex of the culprit. Since they could not decide this question between themselves, they could think of nothing better to do in the case than to take the warrant one to the city limit and let it go—rather make it go. They need a Solomon on the police force of Eugene.
