Strikes Must Stop

The common run of the people of this country have for a long time been wasting their time and breath, and dissipating their moral force in merely taking sides in every contention concerning wages or conditions in labor matters. In so doing, they have merely added fuel to the flames, prolonged the strife, increased its bitterness and added to the loss which these contentions always entail. So long as they have done this, they have gotten nowhere so far as the establishment of principles or the improvement of conditions is concerned.

There are great masses of people in this country who are very slow to give up sweet privilege of taking a hand in every fuss that is stirred up. But our people, one and all, will have to do just that if an end is ever to be put to this apparently interminable turmoil. But the people are gradually awaking to the possibility and necessity of putting an end to it. The movement has been slow heretofore; but it is well under way now, and—mark this word—it will never stop until every kind of strike, as a means of carrying a point in a labor controversy, will be condemned, and the masses of the orderly and thinking people of the country will be arrayed against it.

The most promising step yet taken in this direction was the creation of the railroad labor board, by legislative enactment of the representatives of the whole body of the people, the congress of the United States. Whether any of its decisions are pleasing to all the parties concerned or not, they have the not been as expensive as some others—the wealth destroyed by senseless strikes in this country would pay the national debt in from ten to twenty years, lift a great burden of taxation from the shoulders of the people, provide for the education of all our youth on a liberal scale and vastly improve living conditions in this country.

The Southern Pacific company has made its plans and announced its purpose to make on the east side in Portland. This work includes the raising of its tracks for a long distance on the approach to the river crossing, thereby eliminating a large number of grade crossings, which, with the growth of business on the east side, have now become serious obstructions to traffic. The total cost of all the improvements which the company is about to undertake there is estimated at $6,500,000. Such an outlay as that on one little patch of ground seems to indicate that the Southern Pacific company has great faith not only in the prosperity of business generally in western Oregon in the immediate future, but in the prosperity of Southern Pacific business in particular in this region. Whether the company will commit itself to this great program of improvement before the outcome of the unmerger movement is determined the newspaper reports do not clearly indicate.

A bout between two heavy weight prize fighters has been postponed a week because one of the contestants had a boil on his nose, and his physician was afraid his antagonist might accidentally burst it before it was "ripe". It will come off tomorrow night; that is the fight.

This bit of sound economical philosophy is credited to the New York Tribune: "War wages were bound to result in wage wars."

Has anybody anything to say as to what shall be done about repairing or replacing the Main street pavement?

force of law, and are entitled to the respect and support from any good citizen which he would give to a decision of a court. When it passes on a contested point, it is no longer good citizenship to be spouting on the streets about the rights and wrongs of this or that class, in such a way as to encourage and prolong contention over a matter which should be regarded as legally settled. If a law, on trial, appears to need amending, or further legislation along the same line seems to be needed, there are constitutional methods which can be applied, in which the whole body of the people can join. But if any person or any class holds that a law does not yet perfectly regulate the matter to which it applies, no person or class is thereby justified in setting the law aside.

The peace and prosperity of this country require that we shall come to a point where no such thing as a strike will be resorted to as a means of settling industrial questions. Strikes are bad business, and they do not promote good citizenship or good neighborhood. Taking the two strikes now on hand as a gauge—and they have

A newspaper jokester writes: "Divorces keep people in circulation." Our observation has been that the more divorces the fewer people are put in circulation. It seems to be also true that where the fewest people are put in circulation there the most divorces occur.

SAME Old Story But a Good One.
Mrs. Mahala Burns, Savanna, Mo., relates an experience, the like of which has happened in almost every neighborhood in this country, and has been told and related by thousands of others, as follows: "I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery). I had another attack of the same complaint three or four years ago and a few doses of this remedy cured me. I have recommended it to dozens of people since I first used it and shall continue to do so for I know it is a quick and positive cure for bowel troubles."
