Stability starts with the crude

One of the most important requirements of a good motor oil is that it possess stability—that is, that it maintain its chemical composition and its lubricating body under all conditions of engine operation.

If an oil changes its chemical composition—"breaks down"—at high operating temperatures, it can no longer maintain a lubricating film between the bearing surfaces, and its value as a lubricant is destroyed.

Certain crude oils possess a higher degree of stability than others. Because of its large production of practically every type of crude, this company is free to choose for the making of Zerolene only those crudes which are particularly adapted for the purpose.

The Patented Vacuum Process

In the process of distilling and refining these selected crudes, it is of the greatest importance not to destroy their natural "oiliness" and stability. For this reason we employ our own patented high-vacuum process exclusively. By this process the oil produced—Zerolene—retains all the natural "oiliness" and stability of the original, selected crude from which it is made.

No other refiner on the Pacific Coast uses any form of vacuum distillation. No other refiner in the United States uses as high a vacuum as this company.

Zerolene of the correct grade for your car gives perfect lubrication and permits the development of maximum power, speed and gasoline mileage.

Sixth. Income Tax Bill.

"Defining incomes and providing for the assessment, levy, collection and payment of taxes thereon; prescribing the powers and duties of the state tax commission and of income tax assessors with reference to the taxation of incomes; providing for the disposition of taxes on incomes; and making an appropriation for the purpose of carrying out the provisions thereof."

Purpose: "Levying graduated annual taxes on incomes of all residents of the state and all nonresidents receiving incomes from sources within its jurisdiction; corporations, joint stock companies and associations to pay on their net incomes not otherwise taxed hereunder; corporate bonds declared interests in corporations; natural persons to pay on net income of their business not otherwise taxed hereunder, except pensions, allowances, insurance to amount of $10,000 not received during lifetime; making certain exemptions from personal incomes and exempting mutual savings, building and loan, religious, charitable, etc., associations; provides manner of enforcement; and appropriates $50,000 for expenses.

Initiated by the Oregon State Grange. The bill fills eight pages of the pamphlet.

Affirmative argument, one page, submitted by the Oregon State Grange.

Negative arguments: two pages, by W. Lair Thompson, of Portland; and, one page, by the same bodies as those opposing the interest rate amendment.

WITH THE TOURISTS ON THE AUTO CAMP

Eugene Woerz, wife and several children came here from Portland early in July. They were on the camp, in and out for three or four days, and there Mr. Woerz found work on the McKenzie highway, and they moved up there. Last Thursday afternoon they came back to the camp, and began to look about for work again. They left for Harrisburg Monday afternoon and expected to put in the hop picking season there and at Independence, and there move on to California.

Other campers reported a couple from California as having been on the ground Thursday night and gone south Friday morning. They had gone as far as Montana and the Yellowstone park. They had expected to find a family of friends in Montana, but, instead, received a letter informing them that their friends had moved to Springfield. So they turned back and found them here.

A man from Mill City, Oregon, a logger by occupation, traveling alone, spent Friday night on our camp; and expected to go on to Marshfield Saturday, and probably down the coast from there.

E. E. Emmons had spent most of his early life in the neighborhood of Red Bluff, California. He had gone to northwestern Washington, and acquired a large family. He and his wife and five children—most of the pretty well grown—besides a nephew,

SOUTHERN PACIFIC LINES
JOHN M. SCOTT
General Passenger Agent

Ashley O. Lewis; eight persons, with their camp equipments; were traveling in a Chevrolet. They were going to California. They thought they might tarry here two or three days, and look about a little for work.

Jack Nease, from Portland, had been a traveling companion of the Emmons party through Friday, but would go on and leave them Saturday. He had been in Springfield for a while some years ago, and inquired for people of his own name, and spoke of knowing Mr. Henderson, our former merchant, and O. H. Jarrett.

There were seven cars on the ground Tuesday night, three pairs and a single. Two couples camped together near the north entrance. One had come from about Olympia, the other from near Portland. They had been down as far as Bandon and Port Orford, visiting friends. They had fallen in together down that way, and pooled issues for the rest of their journey. Both were headed for Southern California, but did not care to go down there until the weather was a little cooler. They wanted to find work in this region, preferably cooking and logging, for a few weeks.

Just inside the south entrance was a car in which a young man and two young women were traveling. They had come from Los Angeles, had been as far as Vancouver, B. C., and were on their way back home. At the time we were enjoying the light showers here, they had encountered heavy rains up on the Sound. The man said he had shipped for 12 years on a steamer voyaging to China and the Philippines.

Two families camped down near the river on the south side had come from near Butte, Montana, and were going to the neighborhood of Oakland, California. They had stopped for a while

Two cars, containing two families, apparently, drove in about 9 o'clock. They were from Coos county, and had been stopping awhile at McCredie Springs.

One of the parties that had come through Eugene complained of the misleading "free" municipal campaigns leading into Eugene. They said other tourists had made the same complaint as relating to other places.

Crazy-Quilt Railroad Policy

On top of national regulation we have 48 state regulatory bodies telling how the railroad properties shall be managed. In addition to existing laws establishing national control there are Capper bills pending in congress to denationalize railroads.

With plans afoot to group all railroads in large units and create zones we have the supreme court decision that the Southern Pacific cannot maintain and operate another piece of more or less scattered track-ages that constitute the Central Pacific properties.

For 37 years the Southern Pacific has owned and operated the Central Pacific. For 37 years these lines and the industries of the Pacific coast have grown up and been developed together. Far-reaching indeed must be the public harm from dissolution.

Under such crazy-quilt policies how can our country prosper and how can anyone expect capital or public confidence to turn to railroads.

Cause of Appendicitis.

When the bowels are constipated, the lower bowels or large intestines become packed with refuse matter, that is made up largely of germs. These germs enter the vermiform appendix and set up inflammation, which is commonly known as appendicitis. Take Chamberlain's Tablets when needed and keep your bowels regular and you have little to fear from appendicitis.
