The National Farmer concludes an editorial under the head of "Strikes and Crime," dealing in part with the wholesale murder at Herrin, thus: "Some years ago the Citizens' Industrial association of St. Louis adopted a slogan, which was 'No strike shall be won by crime'. It is a matter for congratulation that the state governments and the United States government are in a fair way to adopt the slogan. It is a good slogan for daily newspapers to carry at the head of the column."

The soldiers' bonus bill which has been so long pushed aside in congress by the tariff bill and other business, is now under consideration, and seems to be approaching a vote in the senate. Among the amendments offered to the pending bill, one which passed the senate Tuesday provides for the application of the interest on the debts due from foreign nations to the payment of the allowance to the service men. It has been thought that President Harding would veto any bonus bill which did not specify a reasonable means of payment. It is not likely that he will veto a measure with this provision.

It appears evident that most of the people of this country who are not dead set against him by reason of partisan prejudice have come to admire Charles E. Hughes for the peculiar ability he has shown in the position of secretary of state. Perhaps many of them have concluded by this time that it was fortunate for him and for the country that he was defeated for the presidency and the largest number that has been reported thus far this season. The travel is notably increasing as observed here, and is so reported, by tourists and others, elsewhere. Last year, as observed here, the travel was heaviest in the months of August and September, or from the middle of August to the middle of October.

A man and wife and a girl of about 15 came in Thursday afternoon, and tarried to get some car repair work done. They were from Bellingham, Washington, and had been a little below San Francisco, and were so far on their way back. Contrary to the general custom, they had been making short drives of from 20 to 40 miles, mostly of mornings and evenings. This plan gave them a better chance to become familiar with the country. The man was evidently not satisfied with the climate of the Sound country. He said they might yet turn back, after the weather became cooler and winter in California.

A car on the south side, Friday night, contained C. E. Pierce, his wife and little boy, and M. Olson, a friend, all from Tacoma. They had first gone to Bellingham for a short visit, and then turned south. Their destination was Loomis, California, between Roseville and Auburn, where Mrs. Pierce's people live, and where they expect to make a visit of indefinite length. From the conversation it appeared that Mr. Pierce is a business man of Tacoma, but in what line was not brought out. Mr. Olson has been a railroad shop worker, and was off because of the strike. He anxiously inquired what the day's news concerning the prospect of the end of the strike had been. "If the strike came to an end he would leave the party at once, and go back. These people were a little shy about giving their names, because they had passed the scene of the fatal auto accident north of Eugene soon after it happened, and had seen the bodies lying covered on the ground, and the crowd of people and cars gathered about; and they were afraid they might be called as witnesses.

The visitor found no new material on the ground on Monday night; and none on Tuesday night, except a family of man, wife, boy and little dog, from Oakland, Oregon, who had spent about two weeks at Belknap Springs, and were on their way home.

landed in this next most important office just at this time. But it is probable that not many of these same admirers will see through his glasses when he reads the record of the case against Truman H. Newberry, and declares that he was "wrongly and unjustly convicted."

WITH THE TOURISTS

Ten cars were reported on the north side of the camp ground, the smaller side, last Thursday night, and three or four on the south side. This is
