The soldier's bonus bill, after farmers progressive convention being debated and amended, was held at Champoeg about over and over again, banded about by congress for months, and pushed aside for this and that measure, was finally passed by both houses a few days ago, sent to the president and promptly vetoed by him. It is not expected that it can be passed over his veto. Judging by the expressions of the ex-service men about Springfield, it is fortunate for Mr. Harding that this is not his year to be a candidate for president. His reported declaration that he does not wish a second term seems to be approved by an overwhelming majority.

Four more votes in the senate yesterday would have made the bonus bill a law, in spite of the veto.

What seems to be an "exclusive" announcement by the Marshfield Daily News puts Charles Hall's "independent" nomination for governor in this light: What it speaks of as a State officials and local posts of the American Legion in Oregon are planning for more extensive observance of Armistice Day this year than in any previous year.

THE TURKS

The sudden breakdown of the Greek invasion of Asia Minor seems likely to cost Greece the loss of all that was really Greek in Asia, and also threatens the overthrow of a good share of the supposed settlements following the great war. The allied nations shaped all their plans of settlement, good, bad and indifferent, on

A LITTLE CAPITAL

HOW much money you can often make if you have a little to start! Even a couple of hundred dollars will enable you very many times to get in on the ground floor in a growing business that needs money.

Are you among the wise ones who read the signs of the times, and see the chances that will come to those with capital in the immediate future? If so, you probably have a growing account at this bank.

the theory that they were dealing with nations. Even Russia should still be regarded as a nation, for its people are capable of bearing the part of a nation when properly organized.

But Turkey is not, and never has been a nation. The Turks were a wild tribe, having a little more of a certain rude kind of intelligence, but hardly equal in character to the North American Indians. They spread themselves over a great extent of country which was once the chief seat of civilization, absorbed the substance of the orderly inhabitants, and made no attempt to improve the conditions of the country or advance the interests of the people whom they ruled solely for their own selfish ends. Recent events show that they have not improved in the six hundred years that they have controlled northwestern Asia.

How long shall the rivalry and jealousies of the European nations allow them to tyrannize over some of the fairest portions and some of the most promising peoples of the earth?

HENRY FORD'S STRIKE

Most of the general strikes which have become sources of trouble to the people of the country at large have partaken of the nature of a conspiracy to oppress the general population of the country and damage their interests as a means of compelling them to throw their weight in favor of the objects aimed at in the strike.

Strikers have been condemned as much for this feature of the strikes as for anything else attending the strikes. It is this principle, which has been involved in nearly all the great strikes that have troubled us in late years, that is rapidly alienating the sympathies of the people of this country from

The Ideal Purgative

As a purgative, Chamberlain's Tablets are the exact thing required. Strong enough for the most robust, mild enough for children. They cause an agreeable movement of the bowels without any of that terrible griping. They are easy and pleasant to take and agreeable in effect.

It's toasted. This one extra process gives a delightful quality that can not be duplicated all striking bodies, without much regard to the professed object of the strike. The people of this country are rapidly lining up on this position—whether any individual reader has kept with the movement of sentiment or not—that when a man goes into a strike on that principle he is pushing aside his obligation as a citizen and as a member of a community.

But does not the same principle, to a greater or less degree enter into Henry Ford's proposition to close his extensive manufacturing establishments, and throw 75,000 or more men out of employment and their families out of income, with all the far-reaching effects this would have upon the interests of numberless others, in order to compel all these people to help him to bear the burden of a war on certain profiteers which he professes to be undertaking? The same, of course, would apply to any other employer who should undertake such a thing.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM MANY SOURCES

A 4L bulletin of September 15 states that in the preceding month 4L employment offices found employment for more than 1600 men. This service was free.

The first oil well in this country was sunk in 1859 near Titusville Pennsylvania, by Col. Edwin L. Drake. At this time, according to estimates by the American Petroleum Institute, there are about 275,000 producing wells in the country. The output in 1921 was 469,639,000 barrels.

On January 1st there were 10,448, 632 automobiles registered in the United States, and on June 1st there was available in refinery storage 52 gallons of gasoline for each one of them.

Statistics of the Department of Agriculture show that, in the year 1921, the boll weevil alone caused a shortage of 6,277,000 bales in the cotton crop, of this country, out of a potential yield of 18,665,000 bales, besides further losses from other causes; and that this shortage, with the loss on seed, would amount to $610,341,000. For the 13-year period from 1909 to 1921, the damage done by the boll weevil is estimated at $3,102,152,000.

A statement issued from Washington under government authority shows that the total number of federal employees had decreased by 79.

The Key that Unlocks the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund, well-fed, but thin, spare men, who live on slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, causing indigestion or constipation and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets to move his bowels and invigorate his stomach. When this is done, there is no reason why the average man should not live to a ripe old age.

Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays a better profit, the fact still stands that ninety nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy, when the best medicine for diarrhoea is asked for, and do so because they know from what their customers say of it, that it can be depended upon.
