

LADIES OF G. A. R. ELECT MRS. EGGIMANN PRESIDENT

Mrs. Charles F. Eggmann was elected the president of the ladies of the G. A. R. in a meeting Friday afternoon in the Woodman hall. She succeeds Mrs. Lottie Bowman, retiring president.

Other officers elected are: Mrs. Al Montgomery, senior vice-president; Mrs. Mary C. Magill, junior vice-president; Mrs. Lott e C. Bowman, conductor, Mrs. Walter Laxton, treasurer. Retiring officers are: Mrs. Frances E. Bean, senior vice-president; Mrs. I. Montjoy, junior vice-president; Mrs. Walter Laxton, conductor, and Mrs. Charles F. Eggmann, treasurer.

Installation of officers will be the first Friday in January, at which time further elective and appointive offices will be filled.

The ladies discussed plans for a series of dinners to be served at noon beginning in the near future. They will be given in the Woodman hall at a nominal price, and the general public will be invited.

The monthly social meeting for this month will be December 19 at the home of Mrs. Eggmann. The ladies entertain alphabetically.

SPRINGFIELD STUDENT PLAYS ROLE IN DRAMA

University of Oregon, Eugene, Dec. 13.—(Special.)—The role of M. Pasquier in "Peter Ibbetson," Du Maurier's well known play, to be produced by the University company of players in the campus theatre on December 14, 15 and 16, will be taken by Joseph Clark of Springfield.

The play is a subtle tragedy and the dream scenes essential to the plot are being elaborately worked out by the University players. Lighting and stage mechanics will be handled by members of the company not represented in the play.

Clark is a junior in the school of drama and the speech arts and is well known on the campus for his dramatic and interpretative ability. He has had important roles in a number of productions staged on the campus during the past year.

BEEKEEPERS GUIDED BY COLD WEATHER FORECASTS

For some years past the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture has been assisting beekeepers by sending them forecasts of mild periods in the late autumn which are likely to be followed by cold and unsettled weather, in order that the bees may get a general flight as late in the season as possible but be housed before unfavorable conditions set in. Forecasts are also issued in the spring to guide beekeepers in removing bees from winter quarters. These forecasts have been sent to individual beekeepers on request, and there has been a systematic service of this character in New York state, carried out in cooperation with the Apicary Department of the State College of Agriculture.

The scope of this work is to be enlarged so that beekeepers in any part of the country can have sent to them such forecasts. The Weather Bureau will make no charge for its services, but recipients will be expected to pay the telegraph charges. When plans are more fully worked out detailed information as to the method of obtaining the forecasts will be published in journals devoted to beekeeping.

LEGUME CROPS DEVELOPED BY NATURAL LIMESTONE

Use of its natural limestone resources has greatly assisted St. Charles County, Mo., in developing its legume crops from a very small acreage to over 30,000 acres of clover, 1,000 acres of alfalfa, and extensive plantings of soy beans and cowpeas in 1923, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. These are especially important crops to St. Charles farmers as dairying is one of their principal industries. No limestone was being used in the county and practically no clover or alfalfa grown when extension work was begun there in 1918. That year the agricultural extension agent secured the cooperation of about 40 farmers in using lime on acid soil as a preparation for growing legumes. Successful demonstrations of the benefits of lime have increased each year and community limestone crushers for utilizing local limestone have been installed to supply the lime. In three years' time, 4 crushers had been established and this year 11 have been in use. Since 1920 over 3,000 tons of lime have been used in the county annually and up to September 1 of this year, 3,000 tons have been applied, providing for a considerable increase in the legume acreage.

Cows kept in box stalls produce more milk and slightly more butter fat than those kept in stanchions, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, but the slight increase in product does not balance the added expense for space, bedding, and labor. Box stalls are to be recommended only when maximum production is desired regardless of expense, as in testing cows for records.
