ROOT RADISH MAGGOT FLY KEPT FROM PLANTS

The radish root maggot is controllable by covering the young seedlings to prevent the root maggot fly from laying her eggs on or near them.

A good method is to make an inverted V-shaped trough, covered with cheese cloth or fine wire screen. The trough is usually made 18 inches wide at the base, 18 inches high and 19 feet long. It can be made from light material and with good care will last several years. The radishes can either be sown in rows or sown broadcast under the screen.

When the radishes are half grown the screen can be removed and another planting made. In this way fresh radishes can be had at all times during the season. Little damage will result from removing the screen from the mature plants as the fly will seldom deposit eggs on any but young plants.

FARM REMINDERS

Trouble in churning at this time of the year may be overcome by raising the temperature of the cream. Cream that is too cold requires a long time to churn. Cream should churn in from 30 to 40 minutes and no difficulty should be encountered in doing this if the cream has a temperature of about 60 degrees. For best results it should be held at this temperature for about two hours prior to churning time.

Gooseberry growers who intend to dispose of their fruit to canneries must spray with lime-sulphur to prevent mildew, but spraying while the fruit is developing will cause "sulphur coating" which spoils fruit in cans. One spray applied as the leaf clusters are beginning to expand and second as the first flowers bloom will usually stop mildew infestation. Thorough work will protect the berries from attack.

Skim thick cream to test at least 50 per cent. The thicker the cream the more skim milk you will have left to feed the stock. Skim milk for feeding hogs or chickens is worth one-half as much per 100 pound as corn is worth a bushel, so 200 pounds of skim milk has as much feed value as one bushel of corn.

Lice and ring worms are likely to cause trouble in stock this time of year, especially in the young. Lice may be handled quite successfully by applying raw linseed oil, rubbing it well into the skin. Ring worms may be treated satisfactorily by applying salicylic ointment or plain hard lard and sulphur on the parts affected.

Try this lunch—a bowl of rice steamed in milk, a dish of fine Oregon stewed prunes, and plenty of cream for both.

Variety comes from serving common foods in a variety of ways. Do you know twenty ways of serving carrots?

Neither meat, fish, cheese, eggs, or beans are needed in a meal where plenty of cottage cheese is served.

A good one-dish meal—arrange a baking dish of potatoes to be scalloped; lay a slice of ham three-fourths of an inch thick on top of the potatoes; and bake until both are tender.

Tie half a dozen flags together with red or blue ribbon, spreading the flags so they will stand, and use these as a centerpiece for George Washington's birthday dinner. Stick a tiny flag in each piece of cherry pie for dessert.

To glorify a humble bread pudding, spread the top, after baking, with a thick layer of good homemade jelly or jam, then pile a meringue on that and brown in the oven. The family won't recognize it.

Church of Christ

The church at school 9:45 a. m. Classes for all ages. The Bible our text book.

The church at worship 11 a. m. Showing forth the Lord's death till He comes to receive His own. A sacred service held each Lord's day as was the custom and teaching of the first century church.

The church in training 6:30 p. m. Training the youth to activity for Christ is one of our greatest tasks. This is the purpose of Young people's meetings.

The church evangelistic 7:30 p. m. Evangelism was the spirit that won millions for Christ in the first centuries of Christianity. Evangelism which is the proclaiming of the whole Gospel to the world is the supreme task of the church in this day. This church has no other message than the whole Bible—the complete Gospel—a message filled with the fruits of evangelism every Lord's day.

Bee Feeds Short in February

Bees are likely to run short of stores in February, says the Oregon experiment station. They are watched closely and when a shortage is noticed a sugar syrup is fed to take the place of honey. To prepare, sugar and water are stirred together in the ratio of two parts of sugar to one part of water. One teaspoonful of tartaric acid is added to every 20 pounds of sugar. Water near the boiling point is used to mix with the sugar but care is taken not to scorch the syrup in making.

Syrup is fed to the bees by pouring into a trivet-top bucket, in the lid of which have been punched 50 to 75 holes with a lath nail. The bucket is placed upside down over the frames of the hive. The top of the hive is then covered with an empty hive body which will fit over the bucket. Several layers of newspaper are placed over the hive for warmth, between the cover and hive proper, with a hole cut large enough to fit the bucket.

You Tell 'Em

The best man and bridesmaid were discussing the event of the evening before at the wedding breakfast. "Wasn't it awful the way the baby cried during the wedding ceremony," said the attendant of the groom. "I don't understand why people should bring the babies to a wedding." "Me neither," said the bridesmaid, "when I get married I am going to have engraved right on the wedding invitation the words, 'No babies ex-

Stamps of Affection

She was bidding her lover farewell for he was going on a prolonged business trip around the world. Tearfully she clung to him and asked: "Dear Adolf, will you be true to me when you are far away? Promise me that you will write to me from every town you visit!" And as he gathered her in his arms, he cried: "Oh, Ada, is it love that prompts you to say this—or are you merely collecting foreign postage stamps?"
