

President Coolidge Leader In National Poll Taken

Thirty-Six States Register Vote Which Seems to Indicate the President Will Win Although Election May Be Decided in House.

Out of 300,000 votes in the nation wide poll, conducted by the Autocaster service for the Springfield News, Coolidge has won nearly twice as many as the other two candidates, Davis and La Follette. The poll has been conducted among readers of newspapers throughout the country and is believed to be fairly representative of the sentiment of the voting public.

This poll is verifying the judgment of those who wager on elections. It shows that those with an idea that the final naming of president will be in Congress have a good bet. Wall street reports many such bets.

Over 300,000 Votes Have Been Polled. Fourth week of voting with returns received from 36 states shows Coolidge holding his lead in the number of popular votes. 292,043 votes have been cast, as follows: Coolidge, 126,228; La Follette, 90,438; Davis, 86,377.

Trend of voting gives majorities to Coolidge in 18 states; nine to La Follette, and nine to Davis. Electoral votes from these states would give 245 to Coolidge; 184 are divided between La Follette and Davis. However, leaders in all parties frankly admit that there are many states in which Coolidge registers a slight popular vote lead, that are absolutely in the doubtful column.

Ohio, for instance, is so close that it can swing either way. Likewise Oklahoma, Iowa, Colorado and New Jersey.

This newspaper's poll shows Davis much stronger than does many other straw votes being taken, namely, The Literary Digest.

The Literary Digest poll up until Sept. 16, with thirteen states heard from, gave Coolidge 162,473; Davis, 42,611, and La Follette, 63,524—the total vote cast at that time was 272,299.

The Hearst poll up to Oct. 1 showed Coolidge, 98,855; La Follette, 98,430, and Davis, 47,591. Coolidge's lead over La Follette in eighteen of the largest cities in the nation was only 425. The Chicago Tribune poll taken in Chicago shows La Follette leading Coolidge.

Twelve States To Be Heard From. Twelve states are yet to be heard from in this newspaper's nation-wide poll. They are Alabama, Arizona, Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Maine, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Carolina and Vermont.

Of these twelve, Maine, Vermont and Delaware will likely show Coolidge majorities. Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Mississippi, and North and South Carolina are solid south states and likely will show Davis majorities. North Dakota is in the heart of the La Follette states—which leaves only two, New Mexico and Arizona, where sentiment is unknown.

Following is the vote by state up to October 1st.

DEPARTMENT GATHERING PURBRED STOCK DATA

To obtain practical information on a number of questions on livestock improvement, the Bureau of Animal Industry is conducting a questionnaire investigation. Subjects covered by a series of questions on blanks which are being mailed to 5,000 stockmen include the cost of raising purebreds as compared with common stock, the marketing of purebred stock as meat animals, and several questions relating to registration of purebred livestock. A number of other topics on which information is lacking or is fragmentary are to be included.

The results of the questionnaire, reprinted livestock specialists believe, will be of interest and value to the entire industry.

The development of the "Better sires—better stock" campaign, conducted by various states and the department, has resulted in a large list of livestock owners who are especially qualified to discuss methods of livestock improvement.

RADICAL BUT NOT RED IS 4L IDEA

Is No Cut Dried Proposition, Admits George Davenport, Chairman of Local Organization

In an interview with Geo. Davenport, chairman of Local 70 Dist 1 Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen, he admits that the 4-L organization in principle embodies a wide departure from the present status of affairs, if those principles were applied to politics we would have a legislature made up of representatives of employers and employees. Geographical lines for the most part would be wiped off the political map, representation being as broad as the industrial lines agreed upon. Employees would elect their representatives and the employers would do likewise. General elections would be less frequent, if at all," states Mr. Davenport who is thoroughly grounded in the principles of the organization and sees much in the possibility of their adoption by way of solving present day difficulties.

Mr. Davenport says the 4L is not a cut and dried proposition. Its workings are novel and most interesting, one experiment after another, that like a charm, produce the desired results. Right now, the local of which he is chairman, is staging a—

Special attendance drive, for meeting held on October 27, 1924, on account of election of officers.

Drive suggested by D. W. McKinnon, Secretary; drive put on by Geo. Davenport, chairman. The drive conducted by commanders, appointed by Mr. Davenport will commandeer, as it were, squads of members to attend this scheduled meeting. Legitimate excuses (only) for non attendance will be accepted. Those failing to attend will be (7) Refreshments will be served after the election of officers. The idea, "will it work?" Answer, next issue. Problems, if there are any, will come up for discussion and best action taken to cope with them.
