COOPERATIVE MARKETING INCREASES EGG RETURNS

C. E. Spence, Market Agent. $1.65 More on Case of Eggs. Here's an actual case, and it should be an object lesson worth while: A Clackamas county man has 285 hens and it has been his custom to simply fill the cases, regardless of size or cleanliness, and ship them in, and he got the "case count" price, which at this time was 45 cents per dozen or $27.00 for two cases.

A poultryman advised him to grade, clean and classify the next shipment which he did, and with the market price the same as the week before, here was the result: Out of the 60 dozen he culled 15 dozen, which were undersized, stained or misshaped. These filled a half case, and he labeled them as seconds. The other 45 dozen were first class eggs and so labeled in the case. He got 45 cents per dozen for the 15 dozen seconds, $7.75, and 50 cents for the 45 dozen selects, $22.50, a total of $30.25 as against $27.00 for the same eggs of the week before, a net gain of $3.25, or $1.62 cents per case.

There are nearly always fair markets for first class quality, and the egg-producer might as well get the higher price as the dealer who grades his eggs. Five cents per dozen is good money for grading eggs.

Powerful Farmer Associations. Seven hundred thousand farmers are associated in the control and marketing of four products, grain, rice, tobacco and cotton. One wheat association has 63,000 members. The farmers are fast learning that they must take over the speculative profits of the middle interests and handle their products themselves; that far more profit has been made after the products leave the farm than in the production thereof. And as they learn they will build more strongly.

Make Uniformity the Basis. A potato grower can get as much money for an 80-pound sack of potatoes that meet the U. S. No. 1 grade as he could for the same sack after he had added 20 pounds of under-grade stock to it, and he could have the 20 pounds of culls left on the farm for stock feed. The dealer who has bought his potatoes simply culls out the 20 per cent and pays him for the 80 per cent good stock. The raiser might far better do this work than to pay the dealer to do it—which he does. Uniformity of product is the basis of co-operative selling.

FARM REMINDERS

By plowing up old strawberry fields of three years of age or more, crown borer and root weevil infestation can be remedied in Oregon, according to the entomologists of the experiment station. The ground should be worked well and if practical, planted to fall grain. New strawberry fields should occupy soil not recently in strawberries. The plants will produce profitably for three years when they should be plowed up again and followed by a three year rotation of crops. At least one of these should be a cultivated crop. Plowing up seems to be the only remedy for crown borer and root weevil infestation.

Fat lambs that are much heavier than 80 pounds will not bring as good a price on the market as the smaller lambs. When up to 90 or 100 pounds the cut in price is usually very heavy regardless of the condition and quality. By feeding one pound of grain a day and all the alfalfa hay the lambs will eat, they should gain one-fourth pound a day. The lambs should be fat and weight 80 to 85 pounds when sold.

To store potatoes successfully good circulation of air must be obtained. The potatoes in storage are not completely dormant. Cell activity takes place which warms up the potatoes. The warmer they get, the greater the activity, so it is desirable to remove the warm moist air as rapidly as possible to keep the potatoes from getting warm. This is best done when the potatoes are stored over a slatted floor so that air may circulate up through them. This keeps them cool and dry which results in less loss by shrinkage. The storage place should be provided with cold air inlets and warm outlets.

Puretest Mineral Oil Russian Type

is both odorless and tasteless. It therefore appeals strongly to those who realize the value of medicinal mineral oil as an intestinal lubricant, but who find the smell and taste of certain oils objectionable.

Furthermore, Puretest Mineral Oil possesses a very high specific gravity, as well as a viscosity (body) that is equal to, if not exceeding, other types of heavy medicinal mineral oil.

A scientifically perfect product.
