The Stomach is a Source of Energy

Our source of energy is in the food we eat. If we eat less than the body requires to maintain itself we are starving, and we'll soon grow weak and emaciated. Don't try the starvation method of curing stomach troubles. You must eat to keep up the fires of life. But if food lies in your stomach without being properly digested it will sour, ferment and cause distress. If your stomach is out of gear—take
