NORTHWEST LEADS IN LUMBER CUT FOR 1924

Washington first and Oregon second in lumber cut for 1924, is shown in detailed figures just received by the district forester's office in Portland.

The lumber production figures for 1924 were compiled by the U. S. department of commerce in cooperation with the forest service, department of agriculture.

For the entire United States the lumber cut was 35,930,936,000 feet, or 3.3 per cent less than for 1923. Of the 29 states, each of which reported the production of more than 150,000,000 feet of lumber in 1924, 19 showed a smaller cut than for 1923. This decrease was shared by all producing regions of the United States. Yellow pine and Douglas fir lead all species, constituting 34.7 and 20.8 percent respectively.

Washington's total lumber cut for 1924 was 6,267,343,000 feet, board measure, and is a 6.1 per cent decrease from 1923, while Oregon cut 3,665,547,000 feet which was 7.6 per cent less than her 1923 cut. These figures are based on data furnished to the Forest service by lumbermen in these two states. In 1924 there were 469 mills in Washington reporting, which is 161 less than in 1923, and 398 in Oregon, which is 61 less than reported for 1923. This decrease does not necessarily mean, forest officers say, that there was a smaller number of mills operating in these states but might mean that a smaller number furnished data on their cut for the year.

Louisiana ranks third and also shows a lower cut by 44.4 per cent, but Mississippi, which is fourth, had an increase of 4.3 per cent over her 1923 cut. California and Nevada recorded likewise a lessened cut by 5.7 per cent, Idaho and Monana both show less production in 1924 than in 1923; Alabama and Georgia show increases.

How to Use Concrete.
There are hundreds of ways and places where concrete may be used for economy and advantage on farms—in barns, silos, fence posts, septic tanks, floors, troughs, walks, wells and basements storage cellars, hog wallows, manure pits, foundations, etc. If any farmer is interested he may secure booklets on any particular use, without charge, by writing to the Portland Cement association, 1003 Gasco building, Portland, or the O. A. C., Corvallis. These booklets give estimates on cost, blue prints, how to mix and much general information.

New Flax Harvesting Machine.
The Campbell ranch in Motnana is working out a system that might be well worth while for flax growers of the Willamette valley to investigate. That of harvesting flax from the wind-crow by a combined harvester-thresher that it is claimed will cut the cost from 18 to 6 cents per bushel.

Practical Instructions in HOME SEWING

Only One and Three-Quarter Yards of Velvet Needed for Smart Hat

It seems this season that one has never before needed so many hats. The plainer the hat the smarter it is but to be in the mode there must be a hat for every frock.

Some of the Paris dressmakers are showing ribbon hats of the same colors as the dresses with which they are shown. These in the satin and gros-grain ribbons have been exceedingly popular all during the late summer and now they are appearing in the velvet ribbons as well.

Hats of this kind are made with out frames and are so soft that they will fold perfectly flat. Anyone who can sew neatly can make them. The particularly smart feature of the velvet ribbon hat I have sketched here is the tucks that ornament both the crown and the brim. These tucks, are about three eights of an inch deep and made, as they are, in the heavy velvet ribbon, they give a corded effect.

A yard and three quarters of six inch ribbon is required to make this hat. First cut a circular piece as large as the width of the ribbon will permit for the top of the crown, cut the ribbon for the sides of the crown according to your head measurements, plus two and a quarter inches for the tucks. The crown has only three tucks while the brim has four. The tucks are made so that they cover the seams in the ribbon.

When the side piece for the crown has been cut, cut the ribbon lengthwise through the center as I have shown at A. This gives you two strips with a selvage on one edge. One piece for the brim is cut two inches longer than the piece for the sides of the crown. This measurement allows for the tucks and for the slight fullness in the brim.

The side crown is gathered at the top as near the selvage as possible. It is then backstitched to the center piece as I have shown at B. The brim is sewn to the crown portion extending slightly below it as at C. This edge is then turned down and whipped over the raw edge of the brim as at D. The ornament is made as at E.

He was 39 years of age, and well known in this district.

Mr. Willian is survived by his wife and two sons, Delmar and John, of Camp Crook; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Willian of Cottage Grove; three brothers, Robert, of Thurston,

John, of Cottage Grove, and Robert, of Reedsport, and four sisters, Mrs. B. F. McCollom, Mrs. M. J. Drury, Mrs. George E. Potter, and Mrs. Ernest West, all of Cottage Grove.

Rev. Harry L. Benton of the Christian church conducted the funeral
