FARMING AND MARKETING TOPIC FOR TRENT LOCAL

"Farming and Marketing" will be the topic discussed by E. E. Morrison, manager of the Farmers Union Cooperative warehouse, before the Trent local Friday, November 25, in the Pleasant Hill high school. Many farmers plant without knowledge of the probable market for their produce and it is to give them intelligent information that the talk as been arranged.

The meeting is open to the general public and is the first of a series planned at Pleasant Hill this winter. The committee expects to have one once a month. There will be a dust and a reading as well as other entertainment numbers on the program.

FROM STATE MARKET AGENT

By C. E. Spence

Oregon Needs Like Law.

Wisconsin has passed a law which will go into effect January 1, which provides that commission houses and produce dealers shall be licensed under bond before they may hereafter do business, and State Market Agent Spence says he hopes a similar law will be passed in Oregon at the next legislature. "I have investigated many cases where it appears the grower had been deliberately swindled out of his products," says the market agent, "by irresponsible concerns who simply pocketed the money and closed up, and there have been several cases where the dealers said creditors were pressing and they could not pay. Producers should have full protection when they ship their products to the cities. Licensing and bonding weed out the dishonest, fly-by-night concerns."

Potato Business Booming.

Due to reports of a nation-wide shortage of potatoes, and perhaps for other reasons, potato prices have been steadily advancing for several weeks, although at the present time prices are lowering somewhat. The state market agent says Oregon has a fairly good field this fall and he thinks the wise grower is he who sells when the market price will give him a fair profit, as the average farmer is not in position to speculate. The bulk of Oregon stock is going to California.

State Potato Inspectors.

Following is the list of co-operative state and federal potato inspectors for Oregon: O. E. Freytag, Gladstone; J. J. Wirtz, Mt. Angel and Woodburn; Frank W. Groves, Lebanon; Leonard Raup, 988 Willamette street, Eugene; Bert C. Huntington, Hillsboro; D. P. McElveny, 112 Citizens Bank building, Portland; W. J. Kocken, Hood River; M. J. Haynes, Sherwood; L. H. Stone, Rt. 2, Troutdale; Paul Carpenter, Baker; R. F. Wilbur, Freevau; A. L. Morris, Warren; Charles L. Thompson and I. M. C. Anderson, Ontario. Shippers wanting inspection will please call nearest inspectors.

Short Vistas High Prices.

W. J. Spillman, consulting specialist in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, said in a recent speech in Washington state that it is probable during the coming quarter of a century the world price of wheat will be the average cost of producing wheat in the big wheat-growing states, because enough wheat will be grown to keep the price down to the cost of production. He says the relatively high prices of last year and this season will mean a considerable increase in acreage in this country. Canada, Australia and Argentina and if a 1 of these countries should have good crops next year the price will be considerably lower than now. The moral of these statements is, produce less to get more money, but until human nature changes, or until giant co-operative organizations can largely control production, the present system will continue, of all rushing in for increased production if this year's prices are good. The manufacturers don't operate this way, says the state market agent—they have a better system—but they are solidly organized.

A Hazardous Industry.

Eleven hundred acres of red-grown apple trees have been grubbed out in Wasco county to make room for wheat next year. And what if the price of wheat should go down to where it was two years ago? Would the land then be set out to prune trees if prune prices should be high? And later on would these trees be pulled out if prune prices were low? Agriculture is a hazardous industry, but there is hope in time that powerful producer-consumer organizations will force out the many needless costs and profits between the farm and home for mutual benefits. Then farming will not be the present big risk.

SPRINGFIELD PUBLIC MARKET

In order that the new Springfield public market may be administered in a way satisfactory to the farmers the Lane County Farmers' Union has been given representation on the market committee. Two of the five members are farmers appointed by the president of the farmers' union.

The business men of Springfield wish the farmers to feel that the public market is their market. They wish also to have the farmers' union regard it as one of their institutions—conducted for all the farmers of Lane county. The patronage of the market is a duty of Springfield people. The quality and quantity of produce sold is the farmers' responsibility.

A most cordial invitation is extended to every farmer who has produce to sell to use the Springfield Public market.

Isaac Gouverneur Ogden, still in the harness at 81, is the great Canadian Pacific System's master financier. On the minute, twice a month, he pays their 100,000 employees. He can remember back when they had trouble to meet their first payroll of a few workers.

OFFICER HART IN CRASH

Crashing head-on into an automobile while pursuing on his motorcycle another car, E. H. Lister, state traffic officer, was severely injured on the Pacific highway at West Springfield yesterday afternoon. It is reported that the injured officer is resting easily at the Eugene hospital, to which he was taken following the accident.

The automobile into which Lister crashed was driven by Mrs. C. E. Hopper of Tacoma. Mrs. Hopper told investigating officers that she was preparing to enter a service station to the left of the highway, going north, when Lister's motorcycle struck her car. The officer, traveling about 50 miles an hour in the wake of a speeding car, apparently did not see her signal. He was traveling south.

Lister sustained a broken arm, broken shoulder, fractured cheek bone and many cuts on his head and body. Both auto and motorcycle were badly damaged.

WIFE OF SENATOR J. S. MAGLADRY PASSES AWAY

Springfield friends of Senator and Mrs. J. S. Maglady will be saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. Maglady in Eugene shortly before midnight last night. Death came as a result of complications following an attack of pneumonia.

The funeral will be held at the Episcopal church Friday morning at 10 o'clock, and the remains will be sent to the Portland crematorium. Mrs. Maglady was born in 1861 in Jacksonville, Oregon, her parent being early pioneers. She was a member of the Episcopal church and the Order of the Eastern Star.

Pleads Guilty of Charge.

Harold Lockwood pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery of material alteration in Judge G. F. Skipworth's circuit court yesterday morning. Not guilty was the plea of Ernest Eller and Harold Cotter, who were indicted on charges of larceny. A similar plea was entered by Glen Walker, charged with assault, and H. H. James, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

Ship Car East—The Springfield Lumber company shipped a carload of lumber east yesterday.

CRESWELL LOCAL

The Farmers' union met in regular session Tuesday night. Mr. Clow was initiated as a member. The election committee which was to meet in Eugene November 4 were not present to report, but Mr. Butler attended the meeting in Eugene and sent word through the president of this union that such discussion was held in regards to county officers and should be given much thought.

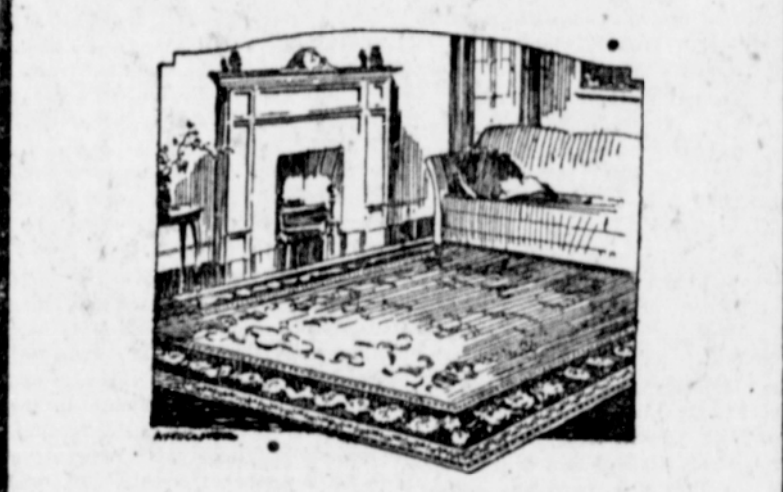

The next meeting will be election of officers. A splendid suggestion was made to have a question box and questions of interest to farmers asked and the questions to be discussed at the meetings. It was put to a motion and carried. A motion was also made and passed to have a bulletin board placed in the Farmers' union store for the use of the farmers having anything for sale or trade and the same being read in the meetings so all can have an opportunity to know what the other has to sell. The president appointed Mrs. Cora Olson as a committee to receive the bulletin news. A communication from the Cottage Grove Chamber of Commerce inviting two from the union to meet with them and offered their assistance in programs. Mr. Holliston and Mr. Gano were appointed as a committee to meet with them. A motion was made that this union did not favor the Farmer's Union Oil station. Refreshments were enjoyed and dues by Miss Leona and Lucille Land.
