A Coincidence That Made Brown

"YOU WANT A MAN LIKE THAT"

Brown was an every day young man around town. Well known, well liked. From his small salary he saved a set amount each week. Every Monday morning he made his deposit, watching small amounts grow into large figures. It was this saving habit that won for him a good position at real money.

Brown's regular appearances at the bank were well known and one day when a prominent manufacturer needed that type man, Brown was pointed out.

Regular saving builds confidence in you. A thrifty citizen is a worth-while dependable citizen—in whom others feel safe in placing trust—friendship, and whom they are ever willing to employ and to help.
