That the state highway commission intends to ask soon for bids on construction of the Roosevelt highway between the Siuslaw and Umpqua rivers through portions of Lane and Douglas counties, is the belief of Lane county officials, who have been informed that a crew of state highway engineers is now working on a survey south of Glonada, on the south bank of the Siuslaw.

Bids for $40,000 worth of highway bonds were authorized by the special commission in charge of constructing the short-cut road through the Salmon river country to Otis, where 28 miles of highway will be eliminated on the road to northern Lincoln county. The commission will open the bids at its next meeting, August 4. Grading probably will start within ten days after the bonds are sold.

The water shortage in eastern and central Oregon, with the exception of districts having prior rights to the natural flows, is more serious at the present time than for many years, according to reports received at the offices of the state engineer. The most serious shortage of water for crops was reported by the Crook county improvement district and the Arnold irrigation company, both of which are in central Oregon.

Reclamation Commissioner Mead is authority for the statement that activity will begin in the very near future on both the Owyhee and the Vale irrigation projects, with limited funds that are available. A contract soon will be let for building a road to the proposed dam site on the Malheur river, and the cost of this road, together with sums that will be paid out for lands needed for rights of way for the reservoir site canals and other works will exhaust the present appropriation for the Owyhee. About half the recent appropriation for the Vale project will be paid out for a full half interest in the Warm Springs reservoir, and the remainder of that appropriation will be spent on drainage work which is a necessary preliminary and for locating the main canal.
