ON THE SESQUI LAGOONS

Here are Americans, visitors to the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia which celebrates the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, riding about the lagoons in an Italian craft, a gondola, from which they view the buildings and displays from many lands. In the distance can be seen the mammoth Sesqui Stadium; to the right is the signal tower of the United States Coast Guard building and exhibit, and to the left is one of the Japanese pagodas which dot the exposition grounds. The Grecian pavilion is one of the permanent structures on the site before the city government decided to build the Sesqui at the front door of the great Philadelphia Navy Yard. The Exposition continues until December 1.

This picture is typical of many such scenes enacted daily at the main gates of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia where the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence is being celebrated. The "shot" was made from outside the gates and shows the long sweep of historic Broad street, the main artery of the exposition. To the left can be seen one of the capitol of the Palace of Liberal Arts and Manufactures which covers nearly eight acres of grounds and which houses some of the finest exhibits ever seen. The Exposition will continue until December 1.

On Hunting Trip—John and Nilo Sankey, Frank Gordan and Claude Landsberry left yesterday for Eastern Oregon on a hunting trip. Another party made up of Dr. Rehban and Dr. Hurley of Eugene and J. C. McMurray left yesterday for Thompson where they will pack into the mountains on a hunting trip.

BUSINESS judgment BROUGHT HOME

YOUNG Mrs. Wellford was talking about her husband's recent illness.

"Bill was home for a whole week. It was his first real chance to see me in action as a housewife—we've been married only a year, you know.

"The third day he said to me: 'Sally, you need an Extension Telephone. You're wearing yourself out, running up and down stairs and from room to room every time the telephone rings. I never realized before how much a woman will put up with without complaining. I wouldn't stand for it a minute in my office.'" (Wellford's Inc. was a model office.)

"And so?" said her visitor.

"There it is," said Sally proudly.

An Extension Telephone costs only a few cents a week.

The Helping Hand

Fall is here. The fruit of your season's labors is ready for harvest, ready to be gathered into safe places, for very stalk of grain, every ounce of live stock is money. Pay for your toil and thought.

Harvest time oft brings a bumper crop of woes and worries—these may grow so big they hamper the successful harvesting of the fruits and grains—if you let them! When you can't handle your products alone you hire help.

So let us suggest that when your financial worries are too heavy for you to harvest alone—that you let us give you a helping hand.
