Do You Use A Lipstick—and How?

New cases or lipstick, like all new vanities, always arouse consideration interest among women, and too often the novel manner in which it is put up sways the decision, to a cosmetic not all suited to one's complexion.

In selecting any cosmetic the important thing, of course, is not the box in which it is sold, but rather the quality and shade.

It is important to remember, in selecting lipstick, whether or not you can afford to use a lipstick that adds prominence to your lips. Naturally, if your lips are large, that is the last thing you wish to do, and particular care must be taken that the lipstick is neither too dark a tone nor too bright. You may use a brighter lipstick at night than by day.

The lipstick should be applied with the mouth open so that when you talk a dividing line will not show. The amount of lip rouge used should vary inversely, with the size of the mouth. Shade off at the outer edges and also at the corners of the mouth. If you are one of those lucky few who possess a mouth that is perfectly shaped you may easily follow its outline in applying the lip rouge. Otherwise, it is necessary that you work as carefully as an artist, making the outlines the way you wish they were.

If a Cupid's bow is more becoming to you - as it is to most people try to suggest it on the upper lip as you make the outline. The rouge on the under lip should be applied in a tiny dip. Do not get it too wide or your lips will look coarse. It is important that the lipstick and the rouge should harmonize. If they are not the same shade they should at least not clash. However, it is a very simple matter to obtain matching rouge and lipstick.

PROTECT CHILDREN FROM BLASTING CAPS

There are approximately 500 children crippled each year in the United States by playing with blasting caps which they have picked up in the vicinity of mines, quarries, or in the fields where agricultural blasting has been done.

This means that there are approximately 500 children who will have to go through life with mangled hands, faces, arms and legs. Some of them are killed.

Blasting caps contain fulminate of mercury, a quick, powerful explosive. It is readily exploded. It will explode when struck with a hammer. The blasting caps will explode when thrown into the fire. It will also explode when children try to extract the contents with a pin, or by holding a lighted match to it, or by thrusting the flaming end of the match into the cap. In the mines and quarries, even, where men who have used blasting caps every day ought to know better, there are plenty of mangled hands and other injuries as the result of crimping caps on fuse with a jack-knife, pointed nail, or any tool that's handy. Many a miner has crippled himself for life in biting the cap on the fuse, and others have filled themselves with copper or have been killed outright by the sparks from their hat lamps or pipes dropping in an open box of caps.

If all the children mangled during the past year by blasting caps had been hurt at one time, what an impression would have been created! But because the accidents are spread all over the country and happen at the rate of only about forty or fifty a month, nothing is done. Indeed the best thing to be done is to educate the whole population to realize how dangerous these exceedingly useful things are when they are out of their proper place, and what a dreadful thing it is going through life crippled or blind or want of a little care and knowledge.

The point to be remembered is that when a blasting cap goes off it does great damage locally. There is no escaping its effects. Among all the accidents reported from playing with blasting caps, there are only two or three in which somebody was not hurt.

Electric blasting caps are as strong as ordinary blasting caps; but as the capsule or shell is sealed up with a sulphur plug through which the wires are carried down to the fulminate, not so many accidents occur in playing with them. They are generally dipped in dark-colored wax, and are not such attractive playthings as the bright copper blasting caps; but "They get there just the same." Amateur electricians are earnestly advised to bury the electric cap a foot or two in the earth before trying to pass electric currents through the wires, and they had better not do it then. Don't open it up to see what's in it. Don't carry caps around in your pockets! Don't take them home with you! Don't leave them where children can get at them! Don't monkey with them!

HAWAIIAN FOOTBALL IS COMING TO FRONT RANK

HONOLULU, Nov. 4.—That Hawaii is a coming force in American football, is evidenced by the fact that Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame football coach will arrive in Honolulu this coming December to conduct a "school" in football playing.

Rockne will come to the islands at the invitation of Coach Otto Klum, University of Hawaii mentor, whose teams have commanded attention at the mainland during the past few years. Klum has turned out undefeated teams which have successfully repelled mainland conference champions. During the past summer the Hawaii coach attended Rockne's football school at Corvallis, Oregon.

Although deluged with invitations to conduct football "schools" in all parts of the United States, Rockne accepted Klum's invitation because a trip to Hawaii appealed to him. He will lecture at evening classes for a period of two weeks. During his time here, he will referee three important games. They are Hawaii vs. Utah, December 18; Hawaii Senior League champion vs. Texas, December 25; and Hawaii vs. Texas, January 1.
