WORDS FROM THE LIPS OF GREAT MEN

"Suffrage and Safety, Like Liberty and Union, Are One and Inseparable."—James A. Garfield.

A LACK OF UNDERSTANDING

Comment on the tour of Queen Marie and provoking criticism of European royalty in the American press, particularly in the western section shows the utter lack of understanding between Americans and Europeans. Institutions we regard as intolerant Europeans hold sacred. Things we make much to do about the Europeans regard as silly. The age old customs and environments have produced peoples of different viewpoints. World travelers and people of broad minds can appreciate these differences of opinion and see much of good on both sides. These sources of expressed differences of opinion usually spring from provincialism in Europe and localism in America. A few of the all wise editors of America, particularly the older type, must give vent to their prejudice at the time of the visit of Queen Marie and children from Rumania.

The queen is a guest of this country, whether we as individuals invited her or not. She should be shown the same courtesy and be accorded the same dignity as we would expect the president of the United States to receive if he were traveling in Rumania. Surely it is rude and uncalled for and not in accord with the American hospitality for editors to begin a tirade against royalty and make light of the queen when she is in our midst. A little dignity would not spoil some of our western dailies.

THANK YOU!

The Springfield bridge bonds emerged from the election nearly a three to one favorite. People of the county generally recognized the fact that a new bridge across the Willamette river was needed here and where there was a need they were willing. Springfield has always voted for needed improvements in other parts of the county and now her acts of friendliness comes back to her. If all the communities of Lane county will work in future for a bigger and better Lane county then each locality will be benefitted. For the fine vote on the bridge we can say to the rest of the county, "Thank you."

Washington reports 2,000,000 gallons of whiskey a year are being sold in this country as medicine, on physicians' prescriptions.

Now, that's nothing to get excited about: Two million gallons of whiskey are a lot of whiskey; but do a bit of figuring. It comes to about two-thirds of a pint per family per year, or a little more than one tablespoonful apiece per year. Doubtless some are getting more than their share, but the stuff is probably spread around so that it isn't responsible for much drunkenness, whatever its medical virtues may be. The doctors have legal authority to prescribe 200 times that much.

The president evidently thinks that the way to make people know that taxes are reduced is to write them a letter inclosing check for a rebate on income tax received by the government. Now days when one branch of the government starts to trench and cuts down expenses it is but an opportunity for another branch to grab it. Really the taxpayer never gets a reduction so you can notice it. The president's plan should make income tax payers realize where the cut has been made.

THE GREAT TASK REMAINS

The new cathode ray tube invented by Dr. W. D. Coolidge may be of boundless benefit to the world. At present, it remains a scientific plaything.

Before its real worth can be known, it must be adapted to use by society.

Bacteria die speedily under the effects of the ray. Experiments with the new tube show it contains as many Beta rays as would be contained in a ton of radium. Beta rays are the most important emanating from radium, and only about a pound of radium is known to exist today.

This new cathode ray tube may lead to a cure for cancer—a cure the medical world is seeking diligently.

But experiments with rabbits so far indicate the cure would be even worse than the disease. The ray is so powerful it burned a hole through the ear of a rabbit exposed to it for only fifty seconds.

It may likewise be a cure for baldness, for when the ear of a rabbit was exposed to it for one second the original gray hair fell out, to be replaced two weeks later by white hair growing three times as luxuriantly as the old. Yet few bald men would care to subject themselves to such treatment until more is known of the results.

The real value of the ray is not yet known. It remains for science, having given the new tube to the world, to discover some practical use for it.

This, science will doubtless do. And science must not be hurried into drawing conclusions. The same careful type of experimenting that led to a discovery of the tube will no doubt eventually lead to a discovery of its uses.

The tube, at least, cannot be put to destructive uses, says its inventor, for with the highest voltage possible the ray's range would be no more than a few yards, preventing its use as a "death ray" in war.

The sage of Potato Hill (Kansas), E. W. Howe, writes in his monthly.

"I predict that soon there will be written a book called 'In Defense of Man,' or some such title.

"Such a book has been needed a good many years. When it appears, if fairly and intelligently written, even women will read it with profit.

"All our laws concerning the relations of the sexes were written with the gallantry of a young man about to marry the Dearest Girl in the World.

"And this gallant young fellow, twenty years later, has no representation in the statutes.

"Last fall a rich man divided his fortune with his wife and they were divorced. This spring he divided the remnant with a bride. The two women now have more than he has.

"The man originally had four million dollars; his first wife got two million; his second wife, a million. If he keeps on marrying in a little while he won't have a cent.

"He is the owner of a considerable factory, and already he is laying off men; he hasn't sufficient capital to swing it to the best advantage.

"Three generations of men founded this fortune in the course of seventy years of hard work.

Two women walked off with three-quarters of it in six months, with a few tears, smiles, ribbon, perfumes and pomades.

"Somewhere cheating has been going on.

"Commercial clubs should take notice. Our strongest and best institutions are being wrecked to make a holiday for frivolous women."

To Ed Howe we might answer "So is you old man." But see what this fellow got for his money. What better use can a man make of his money than divide it with women?"

Grass huts in Hawaii are often equipped with radios we are told. Ukulee strings have been beaten into antennae wires as it were.

Lest We Forget

Again there dawns our great, new Memorial Day, anniversary of the Armistice, November 11th, 1918.

Eight years! Eight years since the bugle sounded "Cease Firing" and the great guns fell silent. Peace again, with hysterical welcome for the living and tears for the noble dead.

Across the sea, on many a sunny field, stand the tablets which mark the graves of America's dead.

"How sleep the brave, who sink to rest By all their country's wishes blest!"

In hospitals and homes still live the wounded and maimed, the helpless and blind. Today let us remember them—let us be thankful to them—let us yield them our reverence and our devotion. They are America's true Nobility—chevaliers without fear and without reproach.
