WORDS FROM THE LIPS OF GREAT MEN

"When Laws cease to be Beneficial to Man,
They Cease to Be Obligatory."—Henry Ward
Beecher.

OREGON DOLLARS WILL MAKE OREGON

"What Oregon makes makes Oregon," is a good slogan for home factories new in production but it might and should have a deeper meaning for us all. Oregon's dollars should make Oregon industrially or at least go half way. For years we have been expecting some capitalistic Santa Claus to come among us and shower the land with factories and prize industrial enterprises. We would then enjoy the fruits of increased business, land and property values and enlarged cities; All without effort in this direction on our part. All we need to do, we tell ourselves, is to boost for them and occasionally pay a little money into the Chamber of Commerce development fund.

The industrial enterprises that have been on the verge of entering and developing our state for years have not come except in rare occasions. We might as well make up our minds now that if Oregon is to be developed to the extent industrially that it ought to be, Oregon's dollars must do it. Factories must be built by Oregon people and Oregon money must go into large cooperative enterprises matching the outside money. Otherwise what capitalist will care to invest his money in a state where the people are industrially backward?

The new Salem Linen mills are magnificent examples of what Oregon capital can do. There are others in Salem and Portland where most of the factory developments have taken place.

Many hundreds of thousands of dollars from Oregon go into stock and bonds in eastern states each year. Oregon's dollars are helping develop other states. Without we can keep some of them at home we cannot expect industrial development here. Neither can we expect eastern capitalist to have confidence in our state when by our own act it appears we have not that confidence. It's up to Oregonians to do what they are able to do industrially to make this state.

We read that a Pennsylvania farmer raised 700 bushels of potatoes on one acre. Well once on an acre near Springfield the potatoes grew so large and prolific that there wasn't room between them to get a shovel blade so the farmer didn't dig them. Now you tell one.

Cruel Judge! For stealing a dance dress an English girl was sentenced to go to bed every night at 10 o'clock for three years.

Old maids live longer than anyone else on the average says a would be medical authority. Go on, it just seems longer.

A woman is a person who will not wait her turn in a barber shop, says one of our tonsorial artists.

J. K. says he once saw a room full of women perfectly silent. Some one had just asked who was the eldest.

Motor boats are replacing the old gondolas in the streets of Venice. A gondola, once the vehicle for ordinary travel and joy riding, is now about as popular as a horse and buggy.

A statuette of the Babylonian Venus has been discovered with bobbed hair as well as few clothes. If it were dusted up a bit probably it would fit in with this age.

We agree with a friend who remarked the other day, "About the time a fellow gets where he can make ends meet someone comes along and moves the ends."

The country would be better off if some of these safe cracksmen were cracking stones on the road.

Easy payments are easy until they fall due—then they are hard.

If a man's face was really his fortune, some of us would always be in debt.

DR. FRANK CRANE SAYS

BE YOURSELF

A common slang phrase is "Be Yourself." It is used in various instances.

It has a good deal of intelligence in it. Few people object to you when your motives are considered to be sincere and genuine. You are only objectionable when you put on motives that do not belong to you.

The thing people do not like most of all is to have you think that you can deceive them. As long as your actions are genuine and real, they know how to deal with them, but when they are convinced that you are endeavoring to overcome them by trying to borrow words or actions or motives from someone else, they do not like it.

So they tell you to "be yourself." Of course we cannot express all of our emotions or feelings perfectly. There is a certain amount of self-control required by ordinary decency, but at least those feeling that we express should be those that are ours unquestionably and not those we think we should have.

A good many people are sorry for themselves, not because of the hard time they have, but because of the hard time other people think they ought to be having. It is very easy for a preacher or an orator or some such one to think that he is working hard when everybody says that he is. If he would honestly look at himself and consult his own feelings alone, he would realize that he is not working at all.

Self-pity arises from a sort of borrowed notion of ourselves.

Oliver Wendell Holmes said that there were several Johns in one person—the man John is, the man John thinks he is, and the man other people think he is.

If everyone of us could distinguish between the man we are and the man other people think we are, it would do much to facilitate our getting along with each other.

POWER OF PRESS GROWING

The late general election in Our Country shows that political leadership in national and state affairs is rapidly being assumed by the press.

The country weekly and small town daily exercise dominant and direct leadership in building the political fortunes of individuals, and molding public sentiment on principals and ideals in public affairs. Their power is increasing, and they are rightly called the home newspaper, in towns and on the farms.—The Manufacturer.
