OFFICIAL PUBLICATION LANE COUNTY UNIT NO. 14

The Oregon Outlook

The Extension Department of O. A. C. says reports from county agents are optimistic for 1927. Sixteen believed the outlook is better than a year ago; five anticipated the same condition; one reported a mixed situation and one a less favorable. An increase in crop acreage was anticipated in 15 counties; six counties were expected to remain the same, and a decrease was anticipated in two. Eleven counties reported increase in the number of farms, seven to remain the same and three to lose. Farmers are urged to carefully study the market demands and prices and base their production on these. There will be ample capital for justifiable loans and the credit situation of the state is generally favorable and indications are that long term loans will increase and short term loans decrease.

A Mammoth Organization

Co-operative egg handling in the Pacific coast states has made giant strides in the past few years and the allied organizations are outstanding demonstrations of what may be accomplished when producers unite solidly. The Pacific Egg Producers Co-operative, which is the selling agency for the egg co-operation of this coast, has handled nearly a million cases of eggs in the past year, worth more than $10,500,000 for its members. Chicago headquarters have now been opened for the distribution of PEP in that section of the country and a publication, "The Cackler," has been started.

Same Breeds, Same Varieties

If the farmers of a neighborhood would get together and agree to raise the same breed and varieties, they would be in far better shape to sell for better prices and to make it worth while for buyers to come to them. The average farm produces too many products and too small volume of any one. Co-operative organizations of the south and middle west centralize on the standard products their localities are adapted to; they exact most stringent grading standards, they sell collectively and the big buyers come to them.
