UPPER WILLAMETTE

The annual Pleasant Hill picnic was held this year without the usual rain that tradition says comes when the Pleasant Hill picnic is held. The day was warm and bright and the ice cream and miscellaneous stands were very well patronized. A splendid program was given in the morning by local talent. Dr. Harry Benton of Eugene gave the address in the morning. In the afternoon the baseball games between the high school alumni and the team of 1927 was the main attraction. The score was 17 to 5 in favor of the alumni. Family reunions were held, many people coming a long distance to shake hands with old friends. The picnic was under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor.

Being former residents of Pleasant Hill they drove to Pleasant Hill from their respective homes in time to attend the annual picnic. They have been going about the district trying to find familiar spots and haunts they knew and loved years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bristow and daughter lived on what is now the Tinker ranch, having left there in the year 1906. They called at the Tinker home Monday morning and greatly enjoyed hunting for old signs. The "Old House" is gone, the elder tree and northern spy that stood near the old house are gone, the barn which was built in 1855 where the family stock, whose names Mrs. Shelley still remembers altho she was a small child when she left

Pleasant Hill, they found changed to a fruit barn with no stalls left. And "Where is the old well" they asked. The large maple trees were mere saplings when they left. They identified "Old Busby Top," a grand old oak still standing on the Jordan ranch where children generations back have swung beneath its sheltering branches.

W. L. Bristow and T. F. Kabler, who have been on the sick list the past month, are both about again.
