

RECEIPTS OF NATIONAL FORESTS SHOW GAIN

The national forests of Oregon and Washington showed the largest receipts of any of the eight federal forest districts, taking in $1,300,173.18 during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1927. This was a gain of $195,017.72 over the receipts for that District in the preceding fiscal year, according to the District Forester, Portland, Oregon. The California District was second in total receipts, taking in $1,162,581.35.

Sales of timber, permits for grazing and other uses of all the 160 national forests brought a total of $5,166,609.39 into the treasury of the federal government during the past fiscal year.

The total receipts from the national forests for the last fiscal year were an increase of $10,948.37 over the amount received in the preceding fiscal year, and exceeded any previous year, except 1923 and 1924, when the receipts were $5,335,818.13, and $5,251,903.11, respectively.

The total national forest receipts last year came from the following sources: timber sales, $3,206,832.82; timber settlements, $21,863.93; timber trespass, $5,673.02; turpentine sales, $18,87.73; grazing fees (cattle and horses) $874,613.82; grazing (sheep and goats), $647,946.54; grazing trespass, $9,295.75; special uses, $277,611.53; occupancy trespass, $399.07; water power, $98,749.34; fire trespass, $5,600.84; property trespass, $50.

In sales of national forest timber the cutting is done under the supervision of forest officers in such a way that the future timber production of the area will not be impaired. Grazing permits on the national forests likewise are issued with a due regard to permanent maintenance of the forage resources.

Under the federal law, 25 per cent of all the gross receipts of the national forests is turned over to the States and counties in which these forests are located, to take the place of taxes which might be collected if the lands were in private ownership, government lands being exempt from taxation. These funds are used for schools and roads in the local communities.

THE people of this age spend millions for the good things of life. And they place Camel first among cigarettes. Modern smokers make money, but when they spend it they insist on quality, and more people today buy Camels than ever bought any other cigarette. Camel value has won the modern world. Money cannot buy choicer tobaccos, nor a more glorious blending. That's why increasing millions in the modern age single out this famous smoke as their favorite. You, too, will find it yours.
