The Soapstone bridge on the Roose velt highway ten miles north of Wheeler was officially opened last week. The structure is of concrete and replaces a wooden bridge constructed in 1915.

With State Forester Elliott and Deputies King and McCarthy of Salem and several other out-of-town officials present, the Union County Fire association held its annual meeting in La Grande last week.

E. J. Dixon, Portland, manager of the Pacific Co-operative Poultry Producers' association, was elected president of the Oregon Co-operative council at the close of a two-day session in Eugene last week.

More than $5000 worth of the delinquent land in the Medford irrigation district has been disposed of in the last two weeks since the land was placed in the hands of the Medford realty board for sale.

Residents of Butte Falls are seeking means of continuing the local bank, owned and operated for two decades by George W. Barker, who ended his life last week as result of worry. Butte Falls is one of the busiest small timber centers in Oregon.

The Salem chamber of commerce went on record favoring the issuance of bonds in the amount of $50,000 for the establishment of an airport there. The proposal probably will be referred to the voters of Salem at the time of holding the primary election May 11.

The new Tillamook National Bank will open Monday, April 9, according to an announcement made by H. H. Rosenberg, president of the institu tion. The quarters formerly occur pied by the Tillamook County bank will be used and have been remodeled for the opening.

Columbia county has accepted the petitions for four new roads, two of them in the Nehalem valley, and two in the western part of the county. Two bridges will also be erected this year, one on the Nehalem highway market road, and one on the diked lands near Clatskanie.

Oregon taxpayers will be called upon to pay a total of $49,943,568.06 this year, according to a summary of taxes just compiled by Earl Fisher, state tax commissioner. This is an increase of nearly $2,000,000 over the taxes of last year, which totaled $47, 975.377.52 for all purposes.

The first Great Northern train out of Portland for Klamath Falls by way of the new Bend-Chemult-Southern Pacific route, is scheduled to leave Thursday night, May 10. The train, according to present plans, will run special and will carry members of the Portland chamber of commerce and other citizens to the new rail celebration to be staged at Klamath Falls, May 11 and 12. Citizens of Rainier, in a closely com tested special election, rejected a proposed amendment to the city charter changing the municipal government from its present form to the commission plan, and approved a tax meas ure providing for special fire protect tion for the DuBois-Kettenring saw mill. The charter amendment was voted down, 125 to 106, and the special tax approved, 107 to 74. Following a number of meetings with ranchers who are raising sheep in the Marshfield vicinity, H. A. Lindgren, expert from the Oregon Agricultural college, and Harvey S. Hale, county agent, made a statement which showed the sheep industry had grown over 100 per cent in Coos county in the past year, there now being 13,000 sheep, other than lambs on the ranges, as against 6600 last year. The past several weeks have pro vided one of 'the most favorable springs for lambing operations to be experienced in Wallowa county in . number of years, according to sheer owners, the greater part of whom have finished lambing at this time. Even the large flocks are reporting per centages of better than 100 per cont while in the small flocks above 150 per cent has been reported by a num ber of farmers. The fish ladder at the Winchester power dam five miles north of Rose burg was destroyed last week by # charge of dynamite, one whole section of the fishway being blown away, completely blocking the river to the prog ress of fish up the stream. It is be lieved that fish poachers were responsible for the crime, as the officers have had a great deal of trouble in the past few years over illegal fish ing at Winchester. Portland took sixth place in the United States for 1927 in fire preven tion in class 2 cities, according to word received by E. N. Weinbaum of the Portland chamber of commerce from the United States chamber of commerce. A council-manager form of govern ment for the city of Salem will be proposed in a charter amendment to be referred to the voters at the time of holding the primary election, accord ing to announcement made by Mayor T. A. Livesay.

New street lights to be installed in the residential districts of Eugene will cost between $12,000 and $13,000, according to Carl A. McClain, superintendent of the water board.

T. F. Rea, pioneer mining man and a resident of Baker county since 1862, died in Baker last week, aged 75. Mr. Rea was a scout for General Howard during the early Indian wars.

Through a rejuvenation of the Marshfield chamber of commerce the membership has been built up to a total of 286, with a good prospect of reaching the set goal of 400.

Governor Patterson has extended the reprieve of James Willos up to and including April 12. This will make the date of his execution the same as that set for Ellsworth Kelley, Friday April 13.

The cornerstone of the new Redmond hotel was laid Saturday in the presence of a large crowd. The building will be three stories in height, will contain 59 rooms and will cost $150,000.

Although "lack of funds" will prohibit any construction of extension work in the Wallowa forest this year, the forest service will be allowed $7000 for the maintenance of roads and trails.

Approximately $374,000 will be spent for improvements in Oregon by the O.-W. R & N. company this summer, it was announced by Walter H. Guild, superintendent. The largest job, $187,000, includes widening of cuts and fills on the main line between Meachem and Huron, a nine-mile stretch.

Decision to submit a $35,000 bond issue to the people of Coos bay to acquire an airport was made recently by a joint airport committee of North Bend and Marshfield civic organizations. The question will be voted on May 18.

Multitudes of golden daffodils marshalled in brilliant array before a background of palms and spaced by ivy-wreathed columns greeted flower lovers at the opening of Forest Grove's third annual daffodil show last week.
