FOUR L IS TO MEET IN TACOMA SOON

Tacoma, Washington, April 12—(Special) Final plans for the tenth anniversary convention of the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen, better known as the 4L, were completed at a meeting of the convention committee here. P. B. Mildon, general chairman, announced that the Hotel Winthrop will be convention headquarters and the two day sessions will take place in the hotel April 27 and 28.

Delegates from 4L locals in the states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho will be present, the committee reported.

The 4L was founded in 1917 and in 1918 was re-organized on a peace-time basis. It is governed by 12 employees and 12 employers, each elected by ballot in the 12 districts of the 4L.

It is expected that between 250 and 300 persons, representing both employers and employees, will be in attendance. Business sessions, a banquet, a dance and inspection visits to Tacoma sawmills are planned. One of the features of the convention will be a review and open forum covering employees wood promotion work, which is now attracting wide attention in the Pacific Northwest.

LORANE MILL IN NEED OF MORE SAWING LOGS

Except for the difficulty being experienced in getting logs to the mill, the Lorane Timber and Milling company plant at Gillespie croners on the Lorane highway would be running full time. C. E. Wheaton, president of the Springfield company which owns the mill, said this morning.

The company has not been given the permission of the county to haul logs over the road to the mill.

Under the present circumstances however, the mill has been busy a large part of the time, Mr. Wheaton said.
