BE ON BALLOT; HEAD OF PROJECT DUBIOUS

There is no chance that the city park measure will get on the ballot for the primary election and only a slight prabability that it will be on the fall ballot, C. E. Kenyon, head of the chamber of commerce committee which has been working on the project, stated this morning.

It had been proposed that a bond be voted to take care of building comfort station at the corner of Fourth and A streets just opposite the Christian church. The city council offered the lots but asked that the chamber of commerce initiate a city traffic officer, Mayor G. G. Bushpetition to put the bond proposition man stated today. and Which Is the Horse?" asks a very fundametnal question. In your editorial you suggest that I consult the Lane County Agricultural Outlook Conference.

Of course, I have already done this and had before I made any suggestions regarding Lane County agriculture. There are two major agricultural activities that the Oregon State Charles P. Poole Springfield chapel Chamber of Commerce are recommending and I believe that they can do so safely without danger of canibating the over-production theory. and I believe it is largely a theory.

You will agree with me, I am sure, that all wealth comes from production and that from the beginning of time agricultural production has been in the vanguard. One might almost call it the divine plan. Industrial developat her home at Ninth and M streets ment can only develop after the soil
