BRIDGE DELAY UNCALLED FOR

With a $127,000 bridge now completed we are told that we must wait until spring before highway approaches are built to it. This to our mind is uncalled for and shows gross incompetence in the highway engineering department. Approaches to this bridge might have been started two months ago. Interest on the investment in this bridge must be five or six hundred dollars a month and to let it stand idle several months after completion is a wanton waste of the public's money.

The highway commission might as well realize that as long as it tolerates this sort of dilly-dallying in the engineering department that they can expect repeated measures like the Dunne bills to crop up and jeopardize the whole system. People of the state are beginning to believe they are not getting their money's worth out of their high plate and gas tax. A few monuments of incompetence scattered around the state in half completed projects will crystallize the sentiment so that newspapers and other good roads boosters will not be able to keep them in line for high taxes and slow results.

HOOVER WINS MAGNIFICENT VICTORY

Sweeping the country in a huge Republican landslide Herbert Hoover has been elected president by the largest popular vote in the history of our country. He comes to the presidency one of the best equipped men who has ever been elected to the position. He represents the type of mind this scientific and industrial age demand and should perform a great service to the country.

While Governor Smith did not get many electoral votes he did get a very large popular vote. Political leaders account for this one way or another but all must agree that Smith's stand on prohibition was the dominant factor. If some changes in the prohibition laws are not made within the next four years we can expect this to again be the dominant issue in the next campaign. Even the most ardent dries should give this problem serious consideration because all must admit that there is some truth in what Governor Smith said in his campaign about prohibition.

Congressman W. C. Hawley who was a visitor in Lane county last week predicts that in the near future the greater portion of our letter mail will be going via the air. He says that a comprehensive survey of the air is now being made by the government to find out the best routes. A plan has been worked out and apparatus invented that an airplane in fog or in the dark can be flown over and along a high power wire and never stray off its course. This with the beacon lights is going to make mail flying regular and dependable, he says.

Mussolini says the newspapers may not criticize his government, but may say anything they want to about his violin playing. However, we doubt that the Italian papers want to fiddle around with that.

Now that the election is over we should settle down to four years of peace and prosperity.

Well all the ballot scratching was not done by the chickens.

KNOWN AND UNKNOWN SOLDIERS

Again we are to celebrate Armistice Day. Already the war is almost forgotten; America is back to peace-time conditions of prosperity; the wounds of conflict have healed swiftly, and former foes are friends.

Many are the persons the world over, however, who are still grieved because of the loss of their nearest and dearest, a loss that no circumstance can make less tragic. It is those who live, whose loved ones laid down their lives for their countries, who are the sufferers. Their sorrow shall last the length of their lives, and on Armistice Day it is only fitting to give thought to them and their noble sacrifices.

The symbol of the Unknown Soldier is beautiful, his grave a fit shrine for all who love America. Armistice Day should be marked with the utmost respects to those who perished in the conflict, identified and unidentified. But our respects must also be paid to these known "soldiers" who are our neighbors—the mother whose son gave all, the father who mourns the loss of his boy, the widowed wives and fatherless children of American soldiers.

On Armistice Day, in addition to expressing our boundless joy at the present state of peace and amity between nations, we must give a thought to these known "soldiers," and do what we can to alleviate their pain and soften the sting of their memories. They deserve not alone our sympathy, but also our whole-hearted respect and love.

HOW TO TELL CHARACTER

There are now more ways of telling character than can be counted on the fingers of two hands. First, we have the time-honored horoscopes in which many believe. Whether these be accurate indices of character or not none can say with certainty—there are too many mysteries in this world of wonder—but many "seers" have been hailed to court on the definite information that their foresight and knowledge of character came of mechanical ingenuity rather than spiritual insight. Palmistry is another means of fortune telling and character reading that has many devotees.

Now there has sprung up the handwriting expert, who claims to be able to tell all about you from a few lines of your normal script. This system seems to have merits; a person's individuality must necessarily express itself in the style of the letters and figures he fashions. One's handwriting doesn't always show flattering traits, however.

There are also ways of telling character by the shape of the features, the bumps on the head and other ways far too numerous to mention—in fact, no one person knows them all. And to top everything, a man has just come along who says the hair is the index of character. Its color, texture and thickness will tell you all about a person. claims this individual, and already he is gaining converts.

Everyone has his favorite method of reading character.

Ours is perhaps the simplest.
We just look the person in the eyes—try it!

The largest amount of travel in history was reported over the McKenzie pass in October. This is a good reason for keeping the pass open as long as possible this winter. As many as 70 cars are reported to have gone over the pass on one Sunday evening in October.

Now that Gene Tunney has been referred to in the papers as Mr. James Joseph Tunney, we can believe he has stepped out of the ring.

After all both sides can't win. Sometimes the people do a candidate a favor by not electing him to office.

A Russian scientist says he has invented a fire-proof coal. Many home owners know that is by no means a new invention.

Does anybody really know how the women voted.

Mr. Kafoury is Teacher

Allen Kafoury, local clothing merchant, has been chosen teacher of the younger men's class of the Methodist Sunday school. The class was organized last week following a meeting of the Argethae women's class.

Beautiful Actress ... Countless Admirers

—The secret of her blasted life told for the first time

"MAGDA, the saintly," her friends called her. For though this beautiful actress had countless admirers, she steadfastly refused to let the slightest suspicion of love or romance enter her life.

Then something happened. The treacherous tongue of scandal linked her name in an ugly way with that of a man of great social prominence.

For some strange reason Magda neither denied nor confirmed these rumors. The poison spread. One by one her friends deserted her. Even her youthful protegee, a young man in the cast whom she had encouraged and helped with all her strength, publicly denounced her as unfit for decent people to associate with. Had he known the truth he would have cut out his tongue rather than breathe a word against her character.

Then Magda's play suddenly closed. Crushed and in despair, she sought out the man responsible for her wrecked reputation, and threatened to expose him—to tell the world the truth.

"I dare you to!" he snarled through evil lips. And Magda knew her fight had just begun.

Until now, the sensational truth about the venomous scandal which blasted her life has remained securely locked in Magda's aching, grief-torn heart. But now her story can be told. It is entitled "Beyond the Pale," and appears complete in December True Story Magazine.

A Landslide--!

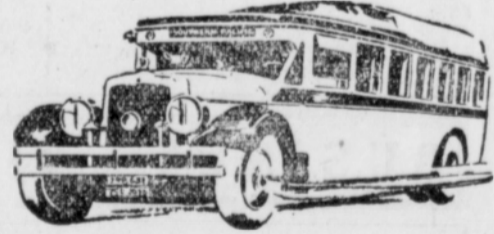

A popular vote on Eggimann's candies would be a landslide in their favor. Wet or dry, democrat, or republican or what not they all like our candies and soft drinks.

That's why we were not worried about the election. We're always doing business at the old stand no matter who's elected. Years of service in making good candies have gotten the public with us.

For all of which we thank you.
