WORLD TEMPERANCE
Romans 13:1-10, 13, 14
Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

This quarterly Temperance Lesson comes on World's Temperance Sunday. Scientific temperance teaching is a part of the curriculum in the public schools in every state in the Union. By all these means the growing youth of every generation are taught that alcohol is the worst in the Imperial city. With all that in mind Paul calls attention to the high place that rulers should have in the estimation of the people. Their office was always to be respected for all power, in the last analysis, was derived from God. Taxes, though excessive, were not to be thought of as extortions but as their just obligation in helping to provide for their own benefits as well as for the common good. If only they would purpose to keep the law they would have no ill will toward either the law or those who were enforcing it. They could think back to what Jesus had said: "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's."

A quarter of a century ago temperance was a decidedly unpopular subject. Today it is about the biggest item of interest in the country.

This letter to the Romans was written from Corinth, a most licentious city where liquor was used most freely to help the abandon in immoralities. Corinth was the play ground for the Romans and there they sought, to outdo the worst in the Imperial city. With all that in mind Paul calls attention to the high place that rulers should have in the estimation of the people. Their office was always to be respected for all power, in the last analysis, was derived from God. Taxes, though excessive, were not to be thought of as extortions but as their just obligation in helping to provide for their own benefits as well as for the common good. If only they would purpose to keep the law they would have no ill will toward either the law or those who were enforcing it. They could think back to what Jesus had said: "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's."

The law of God was held very definitely before them. Anything that tended to hurt their neighbor must be avoided. This is finely stated for every age in the injunction: "Owe no man anything, save to love one another." The very opposite of this is the result when any one makes use of alcohol as a beverage. Alcohol is inherently a poison and its reaction is uniform. Personal liberty ceases as an argument when our neighbor is hurt by what we give or sell him. Society is injured when one, claiming independence in action, causes damage or even danger to those who have a right to live in safety.

That part of the Ten Commandments which deals with neighborly relationships is brought in review. Then all is summarized in "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Having lived at least two years in Corinth on his previous missionary journey and now again for three months, Paul is necessarily familiar with causes of evil. From his sad experiences he tells them about conduct that is hurtful as he says: "Let us walk becomingly, as in the day; not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and jealousy." The Corinthians had been making provision for the flesh not only to its destruction but also the loss of spiritual life itself. Morals are improved, business advances, money saved, life protected just in proportion as alcoholic beverages are given up. The statistician continuously proves this. The development of the automobile industry is a good field of research for anyone who doubts these facts.

COUNTY STOCK RAISERS URGED TO STOP THIEVERY

Every attempt possible to avoid stealing of cattle is requested of Lane county stock raisers and purchasers, it is indicated in a message sent out by officials of the Cattle and Horse Raisers' association with headquarters in Baker, Oregon.

William Doby, secretary-treasurer of the association, claims that stock people suffer great loss when stolen stock is sold to the small killer who has no means of identifying the owner of the stock. The Oregon law affecting this request is herewith stated: "Any person engaged in the business of slaughtering cattle must keep at their place of business, a book, in which they must enter daily, the number of class of cattle slaughtered, and names of the persons or person from whom said cattle were purchased, and the marks and brands of such cattle. Said book must be kept ready at all times for the inspection of any person who may desire to examine the same."

MOHAWK UNION HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

A carnival was given Friday night in the Modern Woodman Hall by the High M club and the Woodmen. The proceeds are to be divided between them and put into the general funds of both. The carnival consisted of: fortune telling, fish ponds, etc. A good time was had by all and the co-operation was greatly appreciated.

The dance to have been given at Wendling at the 4-L hall, Wednesday night, November 21 by the High M has been indefinitely postponed due to so many other high school activities scheduled for this and the coming week. Also the floor of the hall is being sanded and refurnished, but will soon be in shape for the use of the High M and our basketball team. The 4-L has been very kind and obliging in allowing the use of their hall for the past few years. We are very grateful to them.

Our first league game of the season is to be at Santa Clara on December 7th. Our teams have been turning out regularly for practice and are reporting very good progress. The girls have ordered new uniforms which are expected to arrive soon. The Girls basketball team, being in rather poor financial condition at present, has been granted a loan by the Order of the M, and we hope to see them securely on their feet, financially, very soon.

The Senior rings and pins have arrived, and this classical, important jewelry is now decorating the hands and bosoms of our elder classmates.

Seth Gard, freshman, has dropped his school work and has gone to Portland to enter the navy.

Miss Finley of the junior and senior English class has started the class on a new part of journalism—feature stories, and hopes to make editors and reports out of us. She would succeed if we were ambitious enough to work hard enough at it.

UPPER WILLAMETTE

S. H. S. Takes Part in Theme Contest
The English classes have begun work on the theme "Why Lane County Homes Should Be Made of Wood." The aim of the contest is to boost the lumber industry and since Lane County has more standing timber than any other county in the world everyone is putting his best efforts forth to make the contest a success.

There is no danger of the foot boys going on a strike after the delicious lunch that was served to them on the bus during the return from Brownsville Friday.

Study Kimona Patterns

During her absence from school last Tuesday, Mrs. Peterson had Miss Spencer to instruct the advanced sewing class to study color combinations for different types of people. The beginning class was told to study the various uses of the kimona pattern and the chapter on "How Our Clothing Keeps Us Healthy." When she returned the advanced sewing class completed their rag rugs and worked on their make-over problem and the first year class began sewing on the machines.

The typing classes are slowly coming to the front. The beginning classes are now doing fine, the majority of the students being able to type around 20 words per minute with two or three errors.

Students of the advanced typing class cut the stencil for the program which was given Friday, November 9. They were made through the mimeograph in the office instead of being printed.

Glenn R. Cole, leader of the boys' glee club, has chosen a male quartet from the members of the glee club. It consists of Paul Pottet, first tenor; Everett Squires, second tenor; Joseph Crandall, first bass; and Gerald Morrison, second bass. They are working on a few numbers to be given in a high school concert next semester. Mr. Cole announces that he is well pleased with the progress that is being made by both the glee club and the quartet.

50 Years a School Teacher

The ideal of service has never been more nobly exemplified than by Jennie Lynch. For a full half century, she taught in one school in New York City.

To her perseverance, patience, kindness and honor, and to her keen sense of duty, thousands of her pupils who have grown into matured life, owe to her a debt of gratitude which they will never be able to pay.

Serving others, whether it may be in the school room, in the great professions or behind the store counter, and doing it just a little better day by day, is always worthy the best that is in us.

Service is one of life's loftiest aims.
