OREGON STATE NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST

Principal Events of the Week Assembled for Information of Our Readers.

The Eugene-Bend auto stage service will be discontinued December 2 for the winter.

Six Lane county road districts last week voted special taxes for road work to be done during the coming year.

The first car of Klamath turkeys left last week for southern California, where they will be placed on the Los Angeles markets.

With a fall of 41 inches of snow at the rim of Crater lake during the past few weeks, Crater lake is taking on a beautiful mantle of white.

L. J. Simpson has announced that the Simpson Lumber company mill near Eugene will start cutting December 1 with 100 men employed.

A contract for construction of the first two units of Klamath Falls' new $300,000 sewer project has been let to J. F. Shea & Co. of Portland.

Thieves in Clatsop county are said to be making a regular practice of butchering young stock in pastures and selling the meat in Portland.

The tax levy in Freewater for 1929 will be 9.8 mills, as against 14 mills for 1928, the reduction giving Freewater the lowest levy in Umatilla county.

Installation of an electric light and power line will soon be under way in the Victory district near Sandy. This improvement will also extend to the schoolhouse.

Assessed valuation of property in Deschutes county for 1928 shows an increase of $21,175 over that for 1927. Only 12 other counties show an increase over 1927.

M. Fickle, 70, one of the best known of Roseburg's residents, died last week. He served as manager of the Postal Telegraph company office at Roseburg for 37 years.

Government men estimate that more than a billion feet of timber has been destroyed in the past six years by beetle infestation in Klamath county and northern California.

Reports read at the annual meeting of the Eastern Oregon Dairymen's association at Haines showed that 612, 162 pounds of butterfat were received in Haines during the year.

Several Los Angeles promoters are planning the construction of a $300,000 sanitarium in Lithia park at Ashland, which, when completed, will be one of the finest in Oregon.

The Warm Springs drainage system, comprising about 56 miles of drain canal in a project of about 25,000 acres, is virtually completed at a cost to the district of about $270,000.

The S. W. Strauss monthly survey finds Klamath Falls leading in the amount of building for Oregon cities outside of Portland during October with 50 buildings valued at $97,290.

The Dundee Fruit Products company, capitalized at $20,000, has put out 15,000 boxes of candied fruit this season. Candied pears, apples, peaches, prunes and quinces are produced.

Hearing of the case involving the proposed construction of a state office building in Salem at a cost of $600,000 has been set by the United States supreme court for December 3.

Members of the La Grande council of parents and teachers have received an award for having the largest membership in proportion to the school enrollment of any council in the state.

About 40 head of horses raised in the neighborhood of North Powder were recently sold to the United States government for artillery and cavalry work at prices satisfactory to the owners.

Another election is to be held at Richland in Baker county to choose a mayor, G. B. Saunders and R. O. Horning, candidates for that office, each receiving 45 votes at the recent election.

Anticipating a business of $1,000,000 during the coming year, a new unit to cost $40,000 is being added to the $100,000 commercial creamery at Baker, the contract having been awarded to Ernest Stoddard.

Prohibition law violators in Marion county will be requested to contribute approximately $34,000 of unpaid federal taxes, according to announcement made by F. A. Hazeltine, federal prohibition investigator.

Conversion of the old state training school for boys located five miles east of Salem into a state prison annex will be recommended by Governor Patterson in his message to the next legislature, which convenes January 14.

Distribution to the counties of $171,638.10, representing 25 per cent of the receipts received by the federal government from forest reserve rentals, sales of timber and other sources, was announced by the secretary of state at Salem.

Armistice day arrests in The Dalles netted the city $134, according to a checkup made from records in the city recorder's office.

Sidney Frederickson, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Frederickson of Roseburg, found a dynamite cap near his home and tried to explode the interior with a match. The cap exploded and shattered his left hand.

Reforestation of about 300 acres of cut over land lying on both sides of Cannon Beach highway in Clatsop county has been started by a crew of 40 men employed by the Crown-Willamette Paper company.

A quarter mile of forest road into Limberlost camp, seven miles above McKenzie bridge, has just been completed by Cascade national forest crews. This finishes the road work for the season in that district.

The Raphael Leonard placer gold mine in Democrat gulch near Gold Hill has been sold to the Amalgamated Gold Mining company of Nevada. A crew of 14 men has been employed in extracting the gold from the property.

Two important events in the construction of the new Baker community hotel building occurred recently with the arrival of a carload of structural steel from Los Angeles and the pouring of the first concrete into the floor.

Robert Poinsett, a 97-year-old pioneer of Hubbard, was given a birthday surprise when the members of the Congregational church were hosts at a banquet in his honor. Mr. Poinsett is hale and hearty and takes an active part in all community work.

Oregon is a state of small high schools. This was indicated in a report prepared at Salem, showing that of the 274 four-year high schools filing reports with the state superintendent of public instruction, 130, or nearly one-half, have less than 50 students each.

Salem may be selected as the site for a federal landing field for dirigibles, according to announcement made by Councilman Rosebraugh. He asked Mayor Livesley to appoint a committee to investigate sites. Such a field would furnish employment for 2000 men, it was said.

Concrete work on the big dam across the McKenzie river for the Eugene power plant at Leaburg will be completed this winter, according to J. W. McArthur, engineer for the light and water board. He said that the weather has been excellent this fall for construction work.

One lone pullet from Lane county will make a special trip to St. Louis, Mo., to uphold the honors of the Barred Plymouth Rocks of that district in competition with birds from all parts of the United States at the Greater St. Louis poultry show, to be held November 28 to December 21.

County offices, schools and business houses in the city of Prineville were closed one afternoon last week during the funeral services held at Community church for John Henry Gray, Crook county treasurer, who died recently. The church building was unable to seat the large number attending.

Sherwood held its annual potato and onion show last week. Officials in charge stated that the best type of onions and potatoes ever produced on the black beaverdam soil of the Tualatin valley were on exhibit. The show is sponsored by the Sherwood chamber of commerce and the office of County Agent McWhorter.

Dairymen along the Mount Hood loop highway have difficulty in driving their herds across this artery, as motorists as a rule are loath to slow down, it is claimed, even when given a signal, as shown recently when Milton Meinig of Sandy stood in the center of the road waving a red flag, but was forced to step aside or be run over.

High on the McKenzie slope, west of the town of Sisters, the Skyliners, central Oregon outdoor organization, have constructed a ski jump and a 1000-foot toboggan slide. The jump and slide have been put in shape and will be ready for use after the first heavy snow. The Skyliners also have flooded a three-acre pond near Sisters. A cabin was built near the ski jump and toboggan slide.

Following an enforced vacation which began some time ago when the La Grande high school building was damaged by fire, students resumed their work where they left off last week. Four different church buildings are to serve as temporary classrooms. Workmen already have started putting a new roof on the high school building, and the school board will advertise for bids for the remaining repair work to be done in the near future.

More than 20,000 gallons of fuel oil covered a considerable area of north Roseburg recently when a thief backed a truck into the Denn-Garretsen warehouse, filled containers and drove away, leaving the outlet to the storage tanks open.

The work of placing signs at all the cross roads in Linn county by the Oregon State Motor association and the county court cooperating has just been completed. Linn is one of only a few counties in the state receiving this service.
