PAUL CARRIES GOSPEL INTO EUROPE

Acts 16:6-15

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D., Associate General Secretary of the World's Sunday School Association

With the very best intentions it can be hard to know just what is right to do. This problem is intensified when one seeks to do only the will of God. Paul was eager to render service in Kingdom-building.

It was not long before Paul felt impelled to undertake another missionary journey and proposed the matter to Barnabas, who was eager to go forth again but insisted that John Mark be taken along. Now this young man began the first journey with them but became a quitter after leaving Cyprus, and Paul insisted that he was not dependable. Then a real argument arose between Paul and Barnabas. It was splendidly settled by both agreeing to disagree. Whereupon Paul took Silas as a team worker and Barnabas chose his nephew Barnabas for a return circuit through Cyprus. Mark made good and we have the evidence in the Gospel of Mark, that he wrote as well as in the later commendation of Paul, who in II Timothy 4:11 asked that Mark come to him in Rome as he was needed there.

By a journey through the Cilician Gates Paul and Silas visited some of the churches established on the first journey. Then it seemed wise to stop for a length of time in Phrygia and Galatia, but it was made clear by the Holy Spirit that there was greater need for work elsewhere. Meanwhile the journey was continued to Troas.

Recourse was constantly had to prayer for daily direction. "This is not the place to abide" seemed the repeated answer until Paul was on the very threshold of Europe. At Tarsus another major vision was given by way of definite instruction. A man from Macedonia was sent who besought Paul: "Come over into Macedonia and help us." At once Paul understood that he now had certain marching orders and forthwith took ship and soon reached Philippi in Europe. Dr. Luke was now with Paul, as can be noted from the "we" passages that began here. Luke is the historian of Acts as well as of the Gospel that bears his name.

It was always Paul's method, if conditions made it possible, to first seek out the Jews in any new locality. They with him were equally strong in their belief in Jehovah. Then he would follow the wellknown law of pedagogy, after making his point of contact, of proceeding from the known to the unknown. He found that there was a place of prayer by the river side and on the first Sabbath went there that he might meet those who would come together to worship God. It looks as if the group that day was made up of women only. One was a business woman of marked ability, Lydia of Thyatira, who was a seller of purple dyes. She was an eager listener as Paul enlarged on the truth that had come to him by revelation, which he had worked out experimentally in his own life and had seen multitudes of others accept and practice, too. Lydia believed that Jesus was the Messiah and sealed her new faith by baptism as a further act of obedience. Her household was equally impressed and declared their belief by accepting baptism. The grace of hospitality was exercised as Paul and his party of co-workers were invited to make her home their headquarters while in Philippi.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Mr. Taylor Talks to Assembly

"The kind of music you like is good music, and don't let anyone tell you it isn't," said Mr. Taylor in his address in the high school auditorium Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

His talk was on music in a very broad style, including the good and bad in music, and the necessity of music in one's life.

Mr. Taylor, sent by the Sherman Clay and Company, has been giving lectures in many different schools. He also gives demonstrations on the piano, to bring out more plainly the art of music. He played a few numbers told the students about them and their authors. The "Melody in F" and Humoresque were the two selections most of the students recognized.

Although Mr. Taylor's talk was very short, it was of great interest and we all hope to see him back again very soon.

League Room Improved

The Girls' League room at the head of the incline on the second floor has greatly improved since the beginning of the year. Nadine McMurray as vice-president of the Girls' League with a committee of girls from that source has cleaned, painted, and arranged the contents of the room until it now looks very attractive.

The manual training department came to the assistance of the girls by making and painting a table as well as painting a chair, and constructing a bulletin board. The vice-president intends to use this board for notices concerning the care of the room, helpful hints, and bits of advice, as well as attractive pictures and posters.

First aid supplies are to be found on hand here, and since one of the committee is always on duty each period, the wants of any student—boy or girl—may be attended to.

But with all these improvements, the work of this committee has not been fully completed. Flowers, pictures, more furniture, and supplies are still being sought. In a short time the girls expect to have the room as they wish it to be.

And now—if everyone will just help this committee keep the room in good condition and read the bulletins at the side of the door, they will be able to help the more.

Laughteresque to be Given Friday

Laughteresque is put on annually by the Springfield High School. It is always looked forward to by the students, as the winning class receives five points, second place 3 points and third place one point. The class receiving the highest number of points during the year is entitled to put its numerals on the cup.

The stunts this year are to be very colorful and many countries are to be represented. The seniors are putting on Old King Tut, an Egyptian play. The Juniors, "A Modern Romeo and Juliet." The sophomores, "When you and I were Young Nellie" and the freshmen are putting on a Gypsy stunt.

All the characters are working hard so that their class will put on the best play.

The piano has been very popular during the last week. In fact, it has been going steadily every night from four to eight or nine o'clock. It is needed for the orchestra, quartet, and the four laughteresque stunts which are all to appear the same night, Friday December 7. Mr. Cole suggests that another piano is needed for such a musical school as S. H. S.

"Cleanliness is the most important thing in being well-groomed," said Mrs. Brodie, of the McMurray and Washburne Beauty Parlor, who spoke to the girls' "Charm School" of Springfield high on "The Charm of Being Well-Groomed." "If you had on a nice dress, shoes, and everything to go with them but your finger nails were not manicured or your neck was not powdered you would not be well groomed." She also stated that there are many ways of having your hair cut and you should have it cut in the most becoming style.

"You must look nice to be happy. Make yourself look like you like to see other people look," she said, "And you will be well groomed."

Mrs. Brodie asked the girls to look up the meaning of "Allura" and the one sending in the best letter to the beauty shop before Saturday night, telling the meaning of the word would get a permanent wave free.

The typing classes are advancing very rapidly. They are now taking fifteen-minute speed tests and show signs of very good typists. Some pupils type around 25 to 30 words a minute with two errors; which is very good, but of course there are others who make so many mistakes that their average is below 10 which gives them an F for the day. After subtracting 10 for each error many students don't have much left.

The freshmen class changed its laughteresque stunt, as it was too nearly like that of the senior class. Instead of "A Trip Around the World" the class has prepared a gypsy stunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Carrie Hyatt and Victor Dow of Glendale spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of Miss Audrey Daniels.

Miss Geraldine Cook of Canyonville was a week-end visitor at the home of Miss Gladys Porter, who also entertained her uncle and his wife over the week-end.

Miss Lombard, an English teacher in the local high school, drove to Fuller Springs, where she saw some real snow.

Francis Deeds was absent from school Wednesday, November 28 on account of the "flu".
